Need of Airships.
Fifty-fifty.
Vaccination Necessary?
Rust Costs Millions.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Copyright, 1927.

THE Chinese situation should demonstrate, even to the government of the United States, the importance of the flying machine in war.

Hand to hand fighting, and long distance cannon fighting on the ground would be childishly foolish in China. You might kill one million or five million Chinese; that wouldn't make much difference.

But war from the air would make a difference. And it would make unimportant the great numbers that might be put into a Chinese army. Half a dozen eagles in the air would have nothing to fear from fifty million sheep on the ground. A few hundred flying machines, equipped with explosive bombs and poison gas, could bring to reason even a country as great in area and population as China.

THAT'S another reason why the United States should keep out of any Chinese war. WE HAVEN'T ANY FLYING MACHINES. And Russia, which could quickly fly to China's assistance, has plenty of flying machines. Japan has them also, knows how to use them, keeps on building them, hires the best European fliers and buys the finest European machines in addition to building her own. She knows she must rule in the air if she wishes to continue the ruling power of Asia.

WE IN America don't know much of anything, except that we would like to keep prosperity and get a little more money if possible.

One of these days, President Coolidge and his magnificent army and navy should make a note of it, fliers from another country may change our program suddenly.

THE head of the last Russian Czar, killed by order of the Bolsheviks, is dust The crown that he wore, worth many millions, decorated by diamonds and pearls of enormous size, recently was offered for sale with other of the Romanoff jewels in the United States.

A few years ago when the Czar was murdered the thought of buying his jewelry would have been called sacrilege, compromising with murder. Several years make a difference.

Fifty years hence no one would object to the sale. The French republic owns magnificent jewels once belonging to Louis Sixteenth, whose head was chopped off by his beloved subjects. No one would question the right of the French to sell those jewels now if they chose. After all, the Czar, while he had the power to do as he chose with his subjects, sent them into Siberia, beating them to death with the knout. When they got the chance they did as they chose with him. "Fifty-fifty," as Mr. Abraham Lincoln Erlanger would say.

WHEN some good ignoramus tells you that it is a shame to vaccinate children, that such action isn't necessary, or effective, you can usually divert his mind by asking whether he would be willing, unvaccinated, to spend a week in a smallpox pest house? You will find that he would NOT.

DR. EGLOFF says that Corrosion, rusting, eating out, etc., of equipment cost the oil companies $200,000,000 a year. That is only part of the national bill for rust, which amounts to $500,000,000 a year. If that could be saved, and wisely used, the country could soon get rid of the deserts, swamps, and build the canals it needs.

The President of the National Tube Company, subsidiary of the

RAID MORROWFIELD

HIT HOTEL SUITE AS GAMING DEN

Raiding an elaborately furnished six-room suite in the exclusive Morrowfield Apartment Hotel, known as the Morrowfield Club, police, led by Capt. Daniel Ambrose and Lieut. John Cullen, last night revealed an alleged gambling establishment. A large roulette wheel, card tables, poker chips and other paraphernalia were confiscated.

The police conducted their raid too early in the night, they said, and, as a result, bagged only one prisoner who apparently was the operator of the establishment. He said he was J. E. Bohn. Charges of keeping a gambling and disorderly house were lodged against him.

At a hearing in Frankstown Avenue police court Bohn was held for court under $1,000 bail. He gave his home address as 1615 Sarah street.

According to police, the establishment occupied two connected three-room apartments, and to all appearances preparations were being made for a big night when the raiders walked in. Bohn, with the confiscated equipment, was taken to the Frankstown Avenue Police Station.

Free Roxie Long For Day

Roxie Long, well-known prisoner of Allegheny county who was chased over two continents, today enjoyed his first day outside Western Penitentiary since he took up quarters there in January, 1923.

Roxie, convicted on 36 charges of robbery and burglary, was in Common Pleas court with Attorney E. J. Smatt and his presence brought court stenographers and attaches hurrying for a glimpse of the man who was arrested in France for crimes committed in Pittsburgh.

His counsel asked and was granted dismissal of a habeas corpus petition which will be presented later in a changed form in an attempt to gain freedom for Roxie from a one-year sentence for escape which was added to the six-year term Roxie was given on the 36 charges.

Trail Jailbreakers

Posse Hunts Jaworski

PAUL JAWORSKI

Two men have been camping on a hillside in the woods and have been seen prowling about in early morning hours. Farmers and oil workers in the district have seen the pair, who are said to answer the description of the escaped slayers.

The detective group was headed by Assistant Chief Harry Cochran and with him were Robert G. McMillen, Albert Shedlock, Ben McWilliams and John Burke.

Before he left, Cochran wired Wichita (Kan.) authorities for details of the shooting of two bandits there yesterday by two policemen, in the belief that the men might be Jaworski and Vasbinder. One of the men, cornered by police, committed suicide.

There were three bandits in an automobile, being chased by police. The car crashed into a tree, and in the fight that followed a policeman was killed, two of the bandits were shot and one escaped.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Who will become America's "steel king," succeeding the late Elbert H. Gary.

In Wall Street, where that question is today arousing no little speculation, seven names are being prominently mentioned as possibilities for the big job of chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation—if a chairman of the board is eventually selected. There is, indeed, a persistent report that no successor

HOLD SPEED CAUSED PENNSY WRECK

ALTOONA, Aug. 30.—The theory that excessive speed and the sudden application of brakes caused the derailment yesterday of the Broadway Limited, resulting in the death of two men, is being investigated by Blair county officials, Pennsylvania Railroad officials who are investigating the wreck in conjunction with the coroner discount the theory.

Several passengers voiced the speed theory. It was thought possible that suddenly applying the brakes while rounding Bennington curve in the Allegheny mountains might have caused the engine to leave the rails. Associates of Engineer Charles L. Garrett, who was killed, say he was a careful trainman. R. C. Spangler, Garrett's fireman, was killed in addition to two other trainmen being injured.

Railroad officials refuse to make a statement until the probe is completed.

INJURIES KILL SECOND IN BETTIS FIELD CRASH

Clifford Burnworth, passenger in the old "Jenny" plane which carried James T. Clawson, the "flying conductor," to his death, died in the McKeesport Hospital at 9 o'clock this morning. Burnworth, owner of the plane, and Clawson crashed at Bettis Field on Sunday when the obsolete machine went into a tail spin. Clawson was dead when taken from the wreckage. Burnworth resided at 20[illegible] North Negley avenue.

WORLD FLIERS DOWN AT BELGRADE

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The round the world monoplane Pride of Detroit, piloted by William S. Brock and Edward F. Achlee, landed here at 12:03 o'clock this afternoon from Munich, Germany.

An immense crowd of people, including the American consul and many prominent Jugoslav officials, greeted the fliers after their perfect landing, completing the third lap of their world tour.

The Americans announced that they would take a few hours' rest, leaving for Constantinople later in the afternoon.

The Pride of Detroit, the gilded monoplane which carried the fliers to this ancient city from Newfoundland in two hops, made a perfect getaway from Munich. After circling the airport once, the monoplane sped into the sky toward its goal, 1,110 miles away.

Despite the early hour, a good-sized crowd assembled to see the

HOPE BURNS ANEW FOR REDFERN

By Universal News Wire Service.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 29.—Hopes were revived here today that Paul Redfern, missing Georgia to Brazil solo flyer, may still be alive.

Government and municipal authorities continued their efforts to verify a report reaching Para from Caracas that a plane resembling the "Port of Brunswick," in which Redfern hoped to be the first man to make a non-stop flight from the United States to Brazil, had been sighted over the Bay De L'Oyapok, about 100 miles from the northern Brazilian border.

Another unconfirmed report has been received here that Redfern's plane was sighted over the delta of the Orinoco river.

In an effort to determine the authenticity of these reports, the National Telegraph Bureau has queried its stations in Venezuela and Guiana, and definite word was anxiously awaited today.

Redfern is long overdue. Some observers expressed the belief the missing aviator may have been forced to land at some isolated spot in the Brazilian jungles and is slowly treking his way toward civilization.

INDICTED FOR MURDER

PATROLMAN DANIEL J. GRAHAM

Patrolman Daniel J. Graham, known as "The Sheik" and "Handsome," a member of New York's "finest," has been indicted by the grand jury of murder in the first degree in the death of Judson H. Pratt, paymaster for a construction company, who was found with a bullet wound in his temple, slumped in his car. Graham had been assigned to guard the payroll at various times.

LEVINE'S WIFE PAYS OFF PILOT

By International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Explaining that she acted upon her own responsibility and without instructions, Mrs. Charles A. Levine today paid to Maurice Drouhin, former pilot of the airplane Columbia, and his mechanic, Francois Mathis, all the money due them under the terms of their contract with Levine for a transatlantic flight never made.

Mrs. Levine, whose American husband "kidnaped" his own plane at Le Bourget and flew to London after one of the most adventurous flights in history, left for London at noon to rejoin her husband to try and persuade him to return to the United States at once—by steamship.

Mrs. Levine met Drouhin at the office of his lawyer to fulfill the terms of the contract made some time ago by Levine himself. The exact conditions were not revealed but it was understood that Mrs. Levine gave the French pilot a check for 80,000 francs upon the Bank of France, which with 20,000 francs already paid by Levine, completes the sum the American plane owner was to pay if he broke the terms of the contract.

CROYDON AIRPORT, Aug. 30.—Charles A. Levine today selected a half-blinded man to pilot the Bellenca monoplane Columbia with Levine as a passenger, on its return flight across the Atlantic to New York.

Levine announced that he had appointed Capt. Walter R. C. Hinchcliffe. Hinchcliffe lost an eye in an air fight during the war. He is one of Britain's foremost fliers.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine, whose amazing lone flight from Le Bourget, France, to Croydon yesterday is attracting as much attention here as a fresh transatlantic achievement, says he is going on to America somehow, "if I die in the attempt."

The owner of the Columbia explained that he desired a pilot who did not expect perfect conditions for his attempt to fly across the ocean, adding: "I've been trying to get Drouhin to take off for America, but he is unwilling to take a chance without perfect weather."

It is yet to be seen whether the air ministry will have anything to say in the matter of a British pilot's taking over the plane for guidance to America. The question of Levine's arrival without clearance papers seems to have been waived, but British air regulations are very strict and it is surmised Levine may have some difficulty in getting the Columbia released from the hangar in which it is locked. Not only is the plane under guard of Levine's own employes, but it is said to be jealously watched in behalf of the air ministry lest it be taken away unauthorizedly in defiance of the regulations.

Jazz-Mad Policeman Indicted for Murder

By CORINNE RICH.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Patrolman Daniel J. Graham, handsome and debonair, was indicted for first degree murder, accused by the grand jury yesterday of the cold-blooded slaying of Judson H. Pratt, paymaster of a construction company.

It took only two hours for the jury to return an indictment, almost a record, so conclusive did the evidence seem.

And thereby is told as extraordinary a story of misplaced confidence, robbery, jazz madness, romance and love as ever you listened to.

A story it is that seems to be ending with the very authorities with which this stalwart member of New York's famous "finest" had worked trying to send "their man" to the electric chair, as they have many another criminal.

Last Saturday, about noon, the body of Judson Pratt was found crumpled up on the front seat of his little blue car. Its motor still warm, the car was under a bridge in the Bronx on the outskirts of the great city.

There was a bullet hole in the temple of the murdered man and the $4,700 which he had taken from his firm's office two hours before to pay off workmen on a new building was missing.

Working out a story, piece by piece, from evidence swiftly collected, police say Patrolman Graham killed Pratt for the payroll, which he squandered in a "wild time" that very night at Coney Island.

Graham worked at his job of policing from the Fifty-first street station, not far from the new building. He had met Pratt many times as the paymaster went to the building on Saturdays to pay the men off.

GUARDED PAYMASTER.

Patrolman Graham guarded Pratt, going into the little office of the new building and watching as the paymaster doled out his thousands of dollars for work honestly done during the week.

Graham joked with Pratt and became his friend. In the neighborhood he was known as "The Sheik" and "Handsome," because all of his six feet three was carefully groomed, even in a uniform, and might have looked well on the silver sheet.

And in a far-distant section of the city lives a pretty little stenographer, Margaret Wogan, who had expected to marry Patrolman Graham next month. For several years she had known him as a "quiet, dependable, steady young man."

According to the police theory, this is what happened last Saturday.

Graham called Pratt at the latter's office and told him that although he (the patrolman) was off on sick leave, he would meet him along the way and guard him as usual.

Just before Pratt drove up to the new building, Graham, in citizen's clothes, hailed him. The blue roadster stopped.

KILLED DURING ARGUMENT.

After an argument, during which Pratt refused to give up his wallet, a bullet from a policeman's revolver penetrated his temple, oddly enough shooting off the ribbon bow of his hat. The bow was subsequently found and fixed the place of murder, the police say.

Graham pushed the dead man from under the wheel of the car, got in himself and drove away. Several witnesses told the grand jury they saw this maneuver, but they did not know the man "Handsome" pushed over had been shot.

Five miles from this place, out in the Bronx, the blue car stopped, and Graham, taking the wallet with him, abandoned the dead man.

While policemen were searching for some clue to the murder that afternoon, a murder which deprived a bride of two months of her husband and a firm of an assistant superintendent, Graham, "The Sheik," was "blowing in" that money.

GIVES GIRL "LEGACY"

First he bought himself a little blue car, resembling as nearly as possible Pratt's. Then he went to see his sweetheart, leaving with her for safe keeping $900, "which an old aunt just left me."

Then he called up a patrolman friend and proposed a trip to Coney.

They had a wonderful time at a Coney dance hall. Patrolman Graham and Patrolman Berman did. They scattered money around with a marvelously free hand, the money of "the legacy." In fact, the two of them left nearly $1,000 behind them as the payment of their magnificent orgy.

And at six the next morning, Patrolman Graham scrambled out of his new blue car at his home. He reeled a little as he pulled a half dozen champagne bottles along with him.

Detectives, waiting all night in the rain, were rewarded. They had "their man."

AROUND-WORLD FLIERS REACH BELGRADE

BELGRADE GREETS FLIERS

start. The fliers' waves of farewell were cheered by the assemblage, which included many Americans, and the plane was again off on its hazardous flight.

MAY LENGTHEN HOPS

The original decision to fly direct to Constantinople without stopping at Belgrade led to the belief here that Brock and Schlee might attempt to double up their hops in other places as well, but if they do no more than adhere to their present rate of speed, they will have no difficulty in bettering the present round-the-world record of 28½ days. It was the desire to smash this record that prompted their daring flight.

Because of their desire to be "on the go," Brock and Schlee missed an opportunity of meeting Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, who is due to arrive here tonight. The fliers received a message of felicitation from Mayor Walker last night.

From Constantinople, the fliers expect to go to Aleppo, Syria.

DEAN, ONATIVIA, BROKERS FAIL AGAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in United States District Court yesterday against Dean, Onativia & Co., of 11 Wall street. The concern, for many years one of the best known stock exchange houses in New York City, made an assignment July 18 for the benefit of creditors, to E. A. Pierce & Co., giving liabilities at $2,000,000; assets, $1,500,000.

Dean, Onativia & Co. was thrown into bankruptcy in 1925, with liabilities estimated at $25,000,000 and assets at more than $20,000,000. Slow moving assets were blamed for the situation. The amount involved was the largest of any stock exchange failure in recent years.

By an agreement with the creditors by which the latter agreed to accept 50 per cent in cash and the other half due them in two-year notes the firm was permitted to reorganize.

Within six months the two receivers appointed by the court, one here and one in Chicago, were discharged and the firm was reinstated by a vote of the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange.

It is alleged that each member of the firm is insolvent. The members as named in the petition are: J. Clarke Dean, J. Victor Onativia, Jr., Emanuel F. Rosenbaum, Edwin S. Rosenbaum, Benjamin R. Cahn, Hal E. Wiley, Joseph Rosenbaum, John D. Cady and Ira E. Westheimer.

United States steel Corporation, spends a fortune every year fighting, trying to educate the public, studying soil conditions, perfecting steel tubes to resist rust and earth's chemicals. The new process of manufacturing steel direct from the ore by electricity may help solve the problem.

BEWARE of the tables of "normal weight," tells Dr. Leonard Williams of New York. Those tables tell you that a man of a certain height weighs normally 147 pounds at twenty-five, and at fifty, 162 pounds. It is a dangerous falsehood. A man should always weigh less at fifty than at twenty-five. If he does not, he will die sooner than he might die.

One pound or two pounds added to the weight on a horse's back will make him lose a race. Imagine the handicap put on an old heart, old lungs and old kidneys, by adding twenty or twenty-five pounds of fat at fifty.

Dr. Williams says find out what your so-called "normal weight" is, then reduce twenty pounds below it. Weight is fat, displacing muscle, which connects on the heart as well as the abdomen.

Men old in years and of great intellectual power, Voltaire, Pope, Leo Von Moltke, were almost skeletons, all at least twenty to forty per cent below what would be called "normal weight." Every one of us could live well and longer on half of what he eats now.

HIRES TRANSPORT, TAKES FAMILY FLYING

PILOT, FOURTEEN OTHERS MAKE FLIGHT

Fred Hicks, Detroit, has a large family and the children wanted to go "for an airplane ride." He had to charter a big Ford transport and take everybody for an hour's ride over Wayne county. The family, with several other relatives, is shown above: Left to right: Hicks, Mrs. Hicks, holding Lauretta, 1; Irene, 16; Raymond, 14; Clayton, 10; Arthur, 9; Donald, 7; Marien, 6; Betty, 3; a nephew, Norman Furiner; a brother-in-law, Christian Dirks, and grandmother, Mrs. Emma Dirks.

HOLD GIRL, FIVE MEN, IN DOUBLE KILLING

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Aug. 30.—Working on the theory that jealousy was a possible motive, police are holding five men and one woman in connection with the slaying of Fred Russell, 21, and Pauline Dearmond, his 16-year-old sweetheart.

A possible clue to the murder was uncovered with the finding of strands of a woman's blond hair and a letter near the scene of the murder. The letter was addressed to one of the six persons held by police.

The blond hairs were found on the girl's coat. Miss Dearmond was brunette. This, coupled with the nature of her wounds, led police to believe a woman may have had a hand in the attack.

Ethel Stephens, 18, who was said to have been in a road house with her two brothers, John and Claude Stephens, on the night the couple disappeared, maintained a nonchalant attitude in county jail today in spite of the suspicion under which she has been placed.

The girl is a striking blonde.

With Miss Stephens and her brothers are held Harland Reynolds, 25-year-old coal miner, Homer Winstead and Joe Howard, acquaintances of the slain couple.

A letter addressed to Reynolds was found near the scene of the crime.

Around World Flier Claimed by Two As Husband

DAYTON, O., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Two women, each claiming to be the wife of William S. Brock, aviator who is making a round-the-world flight with Edward F. Schlee, talked to each other over long-distance telephone tonight but failed to settle their dispute.

Mrs. Corrine Smithe Brock of Dayton, daughter of a former mayor of Martinsville, Ill., declared she was married to the flier October 1, 1916, at her home in Illinois. Mrs. William S. Brock of Detroit, Mich., asserted she married the flier June 10, 1926, in Chicago.

Mrs. Brock of Dayton said, although they have been separated for six years, she never knew or heard of a divorce.

She said the telephone conversation "did not get us any place."

Hero in Limited Wreck Stays Double Crash

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 30.—Heroic action by Edward R. Hunter, engineer on the second locomotive of the wrecked Broadway Limited, who, though scalded and bruised, flagged a westbound freight before it crashed into the wreckage on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks 11 miles west of here early yesterday, was brought to light in a hospital here today.

Hunter, burned by escaping steam, crawled from the gulley where his engine lay wrecked, dragged out his unconscious fireman, and was first man on the tracks where the sleeping cars, holding 130 passengers, had been thrown in zig-zag fashion.

The engineer heard the approaching freight, not yet in sight around a sharp curve, and ran toward it, waving his arms and shouting. The crew in the freight engine saw him and brought their train to a stop in time to prevent a second crash that surely would have cost many lives.

Hunter, in describing the wreck that caused the deaths of C. L. Garrett, of Pitcairn, and R. C. Spangler, of Derry, engineer and fireman, respectively, on the first locomotive of the flyer could throw no light on the cause.

"We were making a good run," he said. "We were on time and we were running at reduced speed. There was an unusually heavy fog and we were taking no unnecessary chances.

"Then came the crash. What happened is more than I can say. I found myself over an embankment, alongside my wrecked engine, and hot steam enveloped me.

"Emery Hartman, my fireman, lay near me, partly covered with cinders. I dragged him out to a safe place and then went up the tracks.

"The freight was coming from the east and I managed to flag it. After that—well, I don't know."

Hunter, with burns over the entire body, was reported in fair condition at the hospital. Hartman, with both legs and arms broken and with probable internal injuries, was reported in a critical condition.

RANKIN MAN VENDETTA VICTIM

Another murder was officially charged to vendetta warfare this morning when a coroner's jury returned a verdict recommending apprehension of unidentified assailants who shot to death Pete Matoria, 35, of 106 Miller street, Rankin, shortly before midnight August 4, as he sat in front of the Owl Club, Miller street, Rankin.

County detectives have classified the killing with that of James LaRosa, who was slain in the Hill district Sunday. Like LaRosa, Matoria was known as a leader of the underworld in the Rankin district. He was killed, as was LaRosa, by an assassin who used a sawed-off shotgun.

Matoria was sitting with four companions in front of the Owl Club at 11:30 p. m., when an automobile carrying four men halted in front of the club. One of the occupants fired. Matoria fell mortally wounded. The slayer's car sped away.

The sawed-off double barreled shotgun was found on the street where it had been tossed by the murderer as he was driven away. It bore the mark of a Massachusetts manufacturer. Other than this the detectives have no clue. An Italian companion of the slain man threw no light on the killing.

PHILADELPHIANS STAGE MODERN GOLD RUSH

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Philadelphia's gold diggin's at the head of the Parkway, where a dirt fill is being made, received a black eye today. One of the hundreds of prospectors dug up a tattered silk bag which he thought contained gold sovereigns and he jumped into a taxicab to have his find appraised at the United States Mint. A test revealed that the shining discs were brass.

Others searchers found real gold pieces today, however, the net proceeds of the day's work being estimated at about $150. Since the rush started last Saturday it is said that more than $1,000 in $20, $10, $5 and $1 gold pieces has been found. Most of the coins bear dates between 1830 and 1873.

Origin of the pay dirt is an old dwelling at Fifth and Noble streets, where excavations are being made with steam shovels for a large building. The earth is hauled to the Parkway. Children first found the gold coins. Since then hundreds have been attracted to the modern "Klondike."

RECORD TRIP FOR OPERATION

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(A. P.)—Miss Florence D'Villers, attractive young woman from Pretoria, South Africa, was discharged from Jefferson Hospital today restored in health and possessing the record of having traveled the greatest distance to undergo an operation at the Jackson bronchoscope clinic. A small brass paper clip embedded in her lung 16 years ago caused the 15,000-mile journey to this city last month. Miss D'Villers plans to be married soon after her return to Pretoria.

PROPRIETOR OF SALOON GETS YEAR

Patrick B. (Happy) Butler, proprietor of the Stadium Cafe, 3604 Fifth avenue, was sentenced to serve one year in the county jail for contempt of court by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal District Court today.

Plea for parole on the ground of Mrs. Butler's health was refused.

A preliminary padlock injunction had been granted by the court July 14, restraining Butler and his wife from selling liquor. At the hearing last week prohibition agents testified they had purchased whisky there August 11 and 12, and seized some in raids on August 15 and 16.

A rule was granted upon Walter J. Butler, a relative of Patrick Butler, 3506 Frazier street, to show cause why an automobile seized March 8 by prohibition agents should not be forfeited. The agents said they witnessed whisky carried from a building in the rear of 359 Atwood street and placed in the machine. Libel forfeitures were filed against six other automobiles.

TO PROBE LIST IN 1ST WARD

Investigation of charges that nearly 2,000 fraudulent and illegal names are on the assessors lists in the First Ward will start tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, it was announced today at the office of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes. The charges were brought by representatives of Alderman A. M. Maloney, seeking re-election, who is opposed by Thomas A. Flanigan, ward chairman.

Both sides will be permitted to summon witnesses and the investigation will be continued until the entire list of alleged illegal names has been checked. After that task is concluded, the board will inquire into a list of names which friends of Maloney claim were omitted from the lists.

STAR OF "IT" THREATENED

CLARA BOW

The diminutive cinema star, Clara Bow, was being guarded in her Hollywood home after a mysterious chain of incidents gave rise to fears that she was in danger. Two weeks ago a friendless youth appeared at the Bow home and asked the star to befriend him on the plea that he was from her own home town. She did and the young man was a guest for two weeks until Miss Bow's father obtained work for him. Yesterday a party of men halted another cinema star's auto after a long chase and asked if she were Clara Bow. When they learned their mistake they fled.

BERTAUD PREPARES TO HOP FOR ROME TODAY

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Food was stored aboard the monoplane Old Glory today and the pilots retired for a two-hour sleep in early afternoon preparatory to taking off on their non-stop flight to Rome before sundown.

Decision to leave was reached when the runway was judged to have been sufficiently dried out by gasoline fires from the past three days of rain and a 15-mile southwest wind sprang up.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Lloyd Bertaud and James D. Hill, the pilots, decided for a take-off on the strength of the daily flying weather report received from the weather bureau.

They said they had been told that the wind would veer somewhat to the west during the afternoon, assuring them the lift they need to force them up in the air with their great load, the largest a single motor has ever had to raise.

will be named, that the position will be purposely left unfilled and that James A. Farrell, president of the corporation, and J. P. Morgan will be the "big guns" in the future affairs of the company.

If, however, a successor to Gary is chosen, the belief in Wall Street is that he will be one of the following:

1—President Farrell.

2—Myron C. Taylor, head of the American Tire Fabric Company.

3—Nathan L. Miller, corporation lawyer and former governor of New York.

4—Pierre Du Pont, head of the E. I. Dupont De Nemours Company.

5—William J. Filbert, comptroller of the United States Steel Corporation.

6—Dwight Morrow, one of the partners in J. P. Morgan & Company.

7—John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of General Motors Company.

SACCO-VANZETTI ASHES SHARED WITH ITALY

BOSTON, Aug. 30. — (AP.) — The ashes of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, executed radicals, will be divided into four parts, the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee announced today. Half of the remains of each man will be taken to Italy for burial there. The other halves will be interred in a Malden cemetery.

Miss Luigia Vanzetti, sister of the executed man, will take half of his ashes and those of Sacco to Italy under this plan, but its final approval must await her recovery from the collapse she suffered following Sunday's funeral procession.

Conflicting rumors as to the disposition of the ashes, which included one to the effect that they were being held as security for the payment of the undertaker's bill, were dissipated by Joseph Langone, the undertaker.

Langone branded the story as "idiotic" and said Gardner Jackson, of the defense committee, already had offered payment, but he had told Jackson that there was no hurry.

THOUSANDS FOLLOW SACCO-VANZETTI FUNERAL

BODIES CREMATED IN BOSTON

Thousands of mourners of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, executed in Massachusetts for the murder of a paymaster seven years ago, attended the funeral of the two in Boston. Fixed Ideas Dominate Teachers Are Told

T N T is tame indeed when compared with the explosive force of an idea firmly implanted in the human mind.

And in the same way, the coats of mail and shields and armed chariots of the imperial armies of the Cæsars were no more effective symbols than are the black shirts of the followers of Mussolini.

Dr. Earl Barnes, of New Hartford, Conn., speaking at the second day's session of the seventy-seventh annual Teachers' Institute of Allegheny County this morning sent shivers into 2,400 teachers in his audience at Memorial Hall when he told "How Mussolini Teaches Italy."

The reforms in Italy, like all reforms and all great movements, whether religious, political, scientific or educational, said Dr. Barnes, result from the grooming, perpetuation and glorification of ideas.

At the close of Dr. Barnes' address the teachers had an opportunity to take a sort of "seventh inning stretch." They stood up in their places and to the accompaniment of a simple ditty played on the piano went through movements ranging from advanced delsarte to the black bottom, as each individual interpreted the calls of the instructor or the time of the music.

After this Mrs. Fadra Holmes Wilson of California Normal School spoke on "The Teacher, a Temple Builder," praising the work of the educator's profession.

Others speakers were Dr. J. W. White of the University of Pittsburgh and Miss I. Jewel Simpson, assistant superintendent of the Maryland schools. The music was led by a chorus composed of the music supervisors of the various county districts, under the direction of Robert J. McDowell.

Snow, Rain and Hail Sweep New York

International News Wire Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The first snow storm of the season for New York state was reported here today as an aftermath of the storm of rain and hail, which swept Eastern New York for the past 100 days. From points along the Cherry Valley turnpike came reports that enough snow had fallen last night after the hail to cover the ground momentarily. The hail damaged fruit, corn and even buildings.

Flooded roads caused many detours today. In Dutchess county, where Wappingers Creek reached the highest summer freshet conditions in 25 years, several small bridges and summer cottages were washed away. Only once in the history of the United States Weather Bureau here has more rain fallen in 24 hours.

Lightning last night struck the Rose Motion Picture Theater in Troy during a performance. A near panic resulted among members of the audience, and police and firemen were called.

DUCHESS SAILS WITHOUT DUKE

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A duchess of a month is on her way to France without her duke.

Once she was plain Miss Smith. Then she married Llewellyn S. Zehring. A divorce followed. Came a "career" in the movies in Hollywood.

In July of this year she married Duke Salvo D'Addria, coal importer of Rome, in New York. Her age was given as 35, his as 37. The first hint of marital trouble came when the duke rushed down to the pier of the French line and asked Capt. Rene Hourgue to witness the duchess that she must not use his name in Europe.

Then he wept.

"Why did the duchess sail without you?" the duke was asked. He replied in excited Italian that nobody understood. The duchess took her mother with her to Paris, but whether or not she is seeking a divorce there has not been learned.

ADMIRES DAWES HOME, NABBED AS SUSPECT

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 30.—Although the residence of Vice President Charles G. Dawes here has distinctive architectural beauties, it doesn't pay to spend too much time admiring them, August Reiser, an architect of Berlin, Germany, learned. He was marched to police headquarters for walking too often about the palatial mansion in what seemed to the policeman to be a suspicious manner.

He cannot speak a word of English, but was really admiring the residence. He was released.

Truly . . . A New Discovery

Pittsburgh, cradle of progress, now comes to the fore with another new discovery for the healthful happiness of mankind.

This time it is a new food developed by H. J. Heinz Company and the Heinz Fellowship in Mellon Institute of Industrial Research.

Heinz Rice Flakes—in which the long-hidden secret of rice goodness and healthfulness has been disclosed by an entirely new process owned and used exclusively by the House of Heinz.

It is almost unbelievable that these delicate, golden-brown flakes of rice could hold such a delicious popcorn flavor—and retain all their crispness in milk or cream!

But the most wonderful part is that this new process so utilizes the natural roughage of the rice, that it imparts a moisture-absorbing quality which is one of Nature's best eliminative aids.

Try Heinz Rice Flakes for a new cereal treat.

GIRLS HERE LACK TRAINING IN ATHLETICS

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

There is no physical education department for the training of girls in either of the three Pittsburgh universities.

This has caused a great deal of comment and several letters challenging the universities to tell why this important department has been neglected, have been received. After a thorough running down of the situation we find three reasons, all widely different.

Father H. C. McDermott, vice president at Duquesne, says:

"We have no physical education training course for girls because we do not think it is enough in demand. Secondly, it interferes with the other classes and takes too much time from other subjects we consider more important."

Prof. J. S. Gough, at Pitt, went into the subject a little more thoroughly, as did Miss Margaret McClenahan, assistant professor of physical education, who is quitting Pitt after six years to go to the University of Miami to organize a major department there.

Prof. Gough explained:

"Five years ago we dropped our physical education department, turning it over to Tech. They ran it for two years and gave it up. Why they did I cannot say, but truthfully—Pitt cannot afford it. After we get our big building and more finances we certainly hope to reorganize it after consulting Tech as to whether they want to reinstate it instead."

Miss McClenahan believes:

"There is considerable demand for such a course and I sincerely regretted when it was dropped. Finance was the reason. Of course we have an extensive physical department for our own students, but no regular course for the training of teachers. I feel certain that it is only a matter of time before we have it back again."

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Tech, was asked why Carnegie dropped the course, and he replied:

"It costs a great deal to keep up such a course in the first place. Secondly, we didn't think there was a demand that justified it. It takes a great deal of time and money, and there are so many other schools offering the course we gave it up because we felt it was something that could be best dropped with least inconvenience and loss."

Investigation shows that Slippery Rock Normal, 58 miles away, is the nearest school with a major physical educational department. It has lately received its charter to become a college.

An authority who did not wish to be quoted, but who is much interested in the universities here and their failure to provide the course, said:

"I feel there is just cause for criticism of this situation. Surely in a city of this size, with three large universities, there is no reason why one of them should not provide for a course of that sort. It drives students to other colleges away from home and I believe they should be given every opportunity in their own home town that could possibly be provided elsewhere."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The case of Lieut. Thomas Williamson, naval flying ace, charged with violating regulations by stunting over Washington at too low an altitude, has been delivered to a court martial trial board here. Williams' defense was that the machine reported flying close to apartment buildings was not the one he was flying. Decision of the trial board will not be announced for several days.

5 DEAD IN TURF CHEATS' FEUD

TREACHERY IN COUP STARTS TRAGEDY

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—(AP.) The failure of a betting coup with suspicion of treachery as an aftermath has served to cause virtual self-annihilation of a clever gang of race track swindlers, the police believe.

The underworld feud, which has resulted in the deaths of five persons and the wounding of four others, was unfolded today by officers investigating the deaths of Mark Tillery, alias Mark Hall, internationally sought confidence man, and a woman known locally as Clara Mack, and thought to be his wife.

Formed together several years ago, police records indicate, the gang operated exclusively in southern resort cities and Havana, until the winter of 1926 when investigation of a $1,000,000 Miami swindle caused them to drop from sight.

Next, Atlanta authorities began search for the gang following "pay off" swindle there.

CAUGHT

Prior to one of the races during the August meet at the Windsor race track last year, track officials were tipped off that an attempt had been made to disable some of the favorites on the race. A man seen loitering about the stables was arrested and punished by Canadian authorities. The man was Oscar Bacon, said to be a member of the gang.

As the result of the suspected tip-off, the gang broke up into rival factions, according to the police theory, and warfare followed.

John Lee Masters, alleged leader of the gang, was shot to death in a Detroit gambling house a few weeks after failure of the coup.

Shortly after Masters' death, a man armed with a shotgun invaded a gambling house here operated by Charles Imbay and killed Harding Norman, confidence man of Minneapolis, another alleged member of the gang.

OTHERS SLAIN.

Dubot and Roy Browder of Louisville were held for a time in connection with the slaying but were released only to be made targets of shotgun fire from a speeding automobile which sent them to hospitals seriously wounded.

Last week, Baron and Andrew Potts were found seriously wounded in a fashionable hotel, following reports of a gunfight. Two men and a woman were seen running from the hotel.

Two days later the bodies of Tillery and his wife were found in an automobile, bullet holes through their heads. The same night, Harold Bradley, alleged confidence man, was shot down on a street and died [illegible] night.

Baron and Potts, questioned yesterday, said that Tillery, crazed with [illegible] he had been marked for [illegible] shot and wounded them [illegible] attempted to prevent him from committing suicide and then ended the life of his wife and himself.

P. R. R. MAKES PAYMENT ON M'KEESPORT BRIDGE

A check for $5,400 was received by the county from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company yesterday for part payment of the company's share of the McKeesport-Duquesne Bridge. A check for $2,500 from the borough of Pitcairn was received by the county in part payment of the Broadway improvement in Pitcairn.

REPAIRS REFRIGERATOR, IS OVERCOME BY FUMES

Louis Schroeder, 65, of 2605 Frazier street, was overcome by ammonia fumes early today while repairing a refrigerator leak in a butcher shop at 3261 Ward street. Schroeder was rescued by firemen. At Homeopathic hospital it was said his condition was not serious.

BAKERY PASTRY POISONS 50 AT ASBURY PARK

ASBURY PARK, Aug. 30.—The poisoning of 50 persons, who ate cream puffs and eclairs from a local bakery, is the subject of an investigation begun by police. Samples of the suspected pastry have been sent to the State Board of Health in Trenton for analysis. Two months ago a number of similar cases of poisoning were discovered among patrons of the shop, and the proprietor voluntarily suspended sale of all pastry. He resumed a week ago.

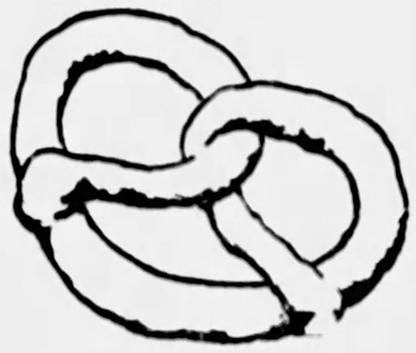
Bite yourself an Alphabet



Isn't it better to be a Pretzeleer?

"Mama, see the funny man. What's he in there for?"

"Why Willie, he is a cu-ri-os-i-ty."

"Mama, what's a cu-ri-os-i-ty?"

"A cu-ri-os-i-ty, Willie, is a person who doesn't like pretzels."

And breaking out a paper bag of O-So-Guds mama began to bite and Willie to nibble and soon they had spelled for the man.

O-SO-GUD

That's an eating word if there ever was one, for it's the name of those crispy, crunchy, salty, twisty Uneeda Bakers' pretzels that everyone but a cu-ri-os-i-ty likes so well.

They're good with cool iced drinks. With soup, with salad, with dessert. They're good on picnics and between meals and at parties. They're good for children. Easy to digest.

Uneeda Bakers bake them. Grocers in every neighborhood sell them.

FLOOD CANADA WITH U. S. ALCOHOL

By M. L. RAMSAY.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—"Go-getting" American bootleggers, favored by an abundant cheap supply of denatured alcohol, have captured the Canadian liquor market with their surplus stocks, it was disclosed in a conference here.

Smuggling of this alcohol, transformed by adding water into what a high official said was best described as "hooch," is one of the biggest problems before sessions of the Royal Customs Commission in session here.

Sitting with the commission are Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman and representatives of the State and Justice departments, prohibition and customs bureaus and Coast Guard Service.

Although its provincial liquor control laws have been liberalized, Canada collects a tax of $10 a gallon on the manufacture of whisky, officials explained. Denatured alcohol can be had in this country at $1.25 a gallon. Run across the border without payment of duty and "cooked" and flavored a bit, this commodity has dealt a hard jolt to the legitimate Canadian liquor trade.

Officials said this traffic was flourishing all along the border, causing the Canadian government deep concern. One American bootlegger handled 150,000 gallons before he was caught.

Most of the smuggling from Canada into this country in the Buffalo region is of beer and ale, according to Lowman. He added that the shipments of alcohol northward are illegal, this government having refused to permit exportation except to certified users.

SCAN HOSPITALS FOR HILL

By International News Service.

STRIATOR, Ill., Aug. 30.—Doctors and hospitals throughout the country were ordered today to be on the lookout for Harry Hill, 22, wanted for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Elias Hill, 53, whose body was found buried in the basement of her home August 22.

Hill, it was learned, was suffering from ulcers of the stomach and was in need of medical treatment at the time he fled Chicago a week ago today, one hour ahead of police.

Mrs. Jennie Bryden, whose son is a close personal friend of young Hill and from whose home he fled shortly before police arrived, gave police this new clue in their hunt for the never-do-well son of Dr. H. O. Hill, wealthy physician, who divorced Mrs. Hill two years ago.

OLD GALLOWS IN BIG DEMAND

By Universal Service.

BENTON, Ill., Aug. 30.—The 12-year-old gallows used at the Jackson county jail will be brought here for the hanging of Charles Birger, Southern Illinois gang leader convicted of conspiracy and murder charges.

Birger is under sentence to be hanged on October 15.

Word from Murphysboro indicated that the gallows will have to be returned there, as there are now seven men awaiting trial on charges of murder. The crimes of which they are accused were perpetrated prior to the passage of the Illinois electrocution law, which means that the men will be hanged if sentenced to die.

The August Sales End Tomorrow

WITH them goes the final opportunity to benefit by August price concessions, the inducement to pre-season selections. You are reminded of two significant points aside from low prices; that assortments are regular stock and therefore present a wide variety to this last day, and that September for all practical purposes is the beginning of fall when this merchandise is needed. It is a day for action, for such values are not likely to present themselves again for many months.

Furs

Even last hour selections can be made with satisfaction in the sale, for the range of coats and the variety have been so well maintained throughout the event.

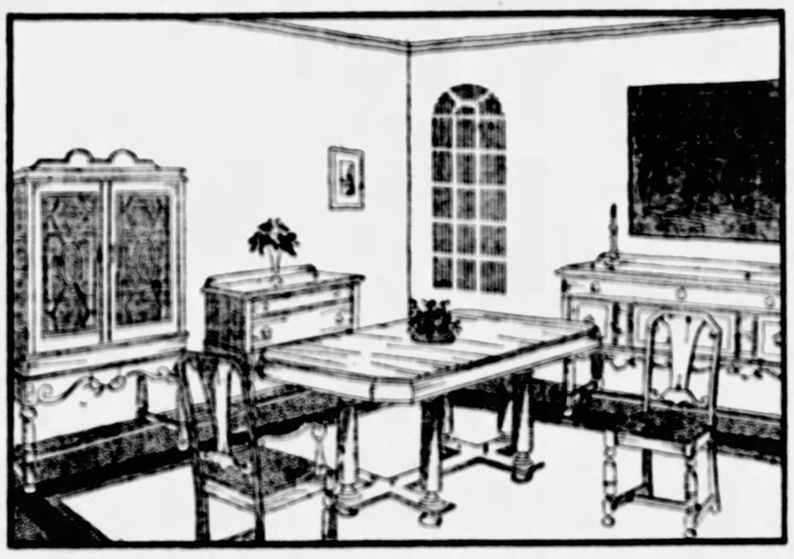
Furniture

Occasional pieces or suites for bedrooms, dining and living rooms all offer wide assortments at special prices. Convenient payments.



Dining Room Suite, $395.00

A ten-piece suite after the Italian style, but simplified for a modern American home. The extension table is an exact reproduction of a table in the Palazzo Vecchio at Florence. Bedroom Suite

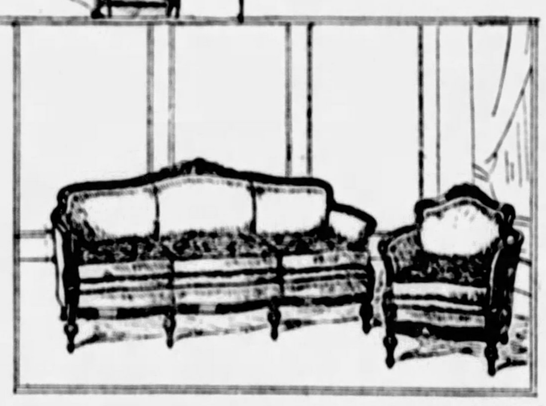
A five-piece suite in every way typical of the Horne ideal, which is to offer furniture of sound construction, of simplicity and beauty in design, at moderate prices. Of mahogany and gumwood, with burl maple panels, in early American style. Chest, dresser, dressing table, bench and full size bed.



Davenport

$185.00

A particularly attractive value is presented in this Davenport. It has a mahogany frame, and is completely covered in mohair. The seat cushions have a very beautiful and colorful frieze on reverse side. It may be had in rose-taupe, walnut, or green mohair. Chair to match, $90.00.

Jersey Dresses

$5.95

In The Fashion-Thrift Section

To fill the need for wool jersey dresses which will have a neat appearance, be practical for many uses, cut sufficiently ample so that they will not cling unbecomingly to the figure, and yet be low in price—that is the purpose with which this group of women's and misses' dresses is to be brought out tomorrow.

There are nine styles, all one-piece, but some with a two-piece effect. The choice of colors is very pleasing—tan, mother goose, Paris blue, palmetto green, wood rose, lipstick red, geranium rose, crimson maple, and navy blue.

The range covers misses' sizes 14 to 20, and women's 36 to 44.

—Horne's, Third Floor—

The Proposition of the Overcoat Sale

—is simply this: "Buy your Overcoat now, during what would otherwise be a dull season, and receive a very substantial reduction in price.

The soundness of the idea is best demonstrated by the tremendous popularity of the event—we sell more overcoats in August than in any other month of the year—more overcoats than many stores sell in a whole season.

All the popular models, fabrics and colors are here for your selection—the largest assortments of the season.

TEACHERS GATHER :-: IN COUNTY INSTITUTE

ADAPTABLE

When the corridors would hold no more registrants seeking a place at the desk of the assistant county superintendents established in the hall for the purpose these fair educators converted a stone balustrade to an escritoire and saved themselves the discomfort of standing in line. The stone did very well, although the city fathers never intended it for that purpose.

NEW STANDARDS

Standards of ability and experience are higher for the teacher than ever before, Superintendent Charles E. Dickey observed at the seventy-seventh annual session of the county institute yesterday. It seems, as you may observe, that the standards of appearance have not gone backward.

Miss Pittsburgh Runs Into a New Thrill

Under orders to rest this week, prospects of a thrill or two that would be new to me were very small. Yet, trying to take life easy and keep away from all forms of excitement have proven as not sufficient safeguards against new experiences.

I only go downtown for an hour or two and the rest of the day is spent at home. But it so happened my little trip to town yesterday brought me a new experience. Given a car of my own to drive about in, I naturally use it. After an hour or so about town, I returned to the machine and found another gift awaited me. Yes, it was a tag for violating a parking law.

So it is that despite my efforts to follow instructions and keep away from excitement, I found the new thrill seeking me out. I guess it is a case of live and learn—so that tag just means another lesson in life. But I'll be more careful, even so far as remaining home all day, if necessary.

MAYOR SCORES IN OUSTER FIGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(AP)—William McAndrew, the Chicago school superintendent who Mayor William Hale Thompson charged with bringing pro-British history books into the public schools has been suspended temporarily from the schools.

The superintendent was suspended for insubordination by the board of education yesterday by a vote of 6 to 5.

The charge of insubordination which directly led to McAndrew's suspension grew out of his efforts in behalf of 246 teachers he asked to be retained in their positions were clerical and under the direction of civil service. No mention was made of Mayor Thompson's complaint that he was a "stool pigeon of King George filling the schools with English propaganda."

Mayor Thompson had pledged in his campaign to "rid the schools of McAndrew."

The temporarily deposed superintendent is prepared to launch a fight to regain his position and intends to go to court if necessary.

Producer in England Is Angling For Betty Bronson to Portray Lead in "The Constant Nymph"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—England is angling for Betty Bronson. She is being sought to play the lead in "The Constant Nymph," which is to be made by the British Films, Ltd.

Though Miss Bronson's contract has several months to run at Paramount, negotiations are now under way for her appearance in the English picture and it is thought more than likely she will be borrowed for the express purpose of creating the widely discussed Margaret Kennedy heroine of the screen.

To far-away London which [illegible] quite enough to turn any girl and which will fulfill a long-cherished dream of hers—not only to visit England, but to meet Sir James Barrie, who is really her motion-picture godfather. It was he who chose for her first screen role, that of Wendy in Peter Pan, the personification of his pet brain child.

The combination of writer, director and star in "The Way of All Flesh" proved so satisfactory to Paramount that they have again combined the trio on the coming Emil Jannings picture. Victor Fleming will again direct the German star in a story which Jules Furthman has written especially for the occasion. The new story has not yet been given a title but it is said to revolve around the life of a noted Russian general.

A group of Hollywood wayfarers is returning from the tropics within the next fortnight. Edith Roberts and Edmund Burns, who have been in the Fiji Islands and the Antipodes appearing in a Norman Dawn production, are in Hawaii on their return voyage. Scotty Dunlap, who also has been directing a picture in the South Seas, is one of their fellow tourists.

PITT COMEDY IS HIT

There is a laugh-fest in the Pitt theater this week which undoubtedly is the outstanding production the George Sharp players have offered Pittsburgh in their short stay. This assumption is based upon the reaction of last night's audience. Approval of the comedy needed no further evidence than the almost continuous round of laughter. That the performance equalled the standard of a regular season's visiting attraction was borne out in the remarks of praise overheard as the audience passed from the theater.

"Laff That Off" is the attraction serving to re-introduce to the theatergoers the popular star, Thurston Hall. To state he is the same capable actor he was when on his last visit here, starring in "The Broken Wing," in the same theater, does not do justice to his performance last night. Co-starring with Mr. Hall was Anne Forrest, whose popularity seems to even continue to grow after many weeks. As co-stars, they were found to be an excellent couple.

However, as good as the stars proved themselves, the honors were earned last night by the company's light comedian, John W. Moore. His very appearance on the stage seemed to prepare the audience for laughs and throughout the three acts of this excellent comedy, Mr. Moore bore the fun in ever increasing mirth. The other members of the cast fitted perfectly into the characters they portrayed, making the entire production the utmost in entertainment, even for an opening night.

In passing out credit for the success, every member should be given a share of the honors. Outstanding were Mabel Kriman as the "mop-pus," with Geoffrey Bryant, as juvenile lead, playing opposite her.

Mexican Star to Wear Family Jewels in New Picture

No "prop" jewels are going to be worn by Dolores del Rio when she appears before the camera in the title role of Helen Hunt Jackson's story, "Ramona."

The star, who hails from Mexico, springs with her sothe of the most precious Indian and Spanish jewelry obtainable—jewels that have been in her family for many generations. These she will wear in "Ramona."

Dolores also has some rich Mexican gowns which she has agreed to have refitted to suit the characterization she is to portray in this story of early California love and romance.

KLEMAN INN SEASON TO OPEN THURSDAY

J. P. Kleman announces the opening of Kleman Inn Thursday, September 1, for the fall season. David S. Lewis, formerly of the Lewis Catering Service, will assume the management. Dinners will be served from 5 p. m. until 8:30 p. m. daily, with Sunday and holiday service beginning at 12 o'clock noon. Gaylord's Kleman Inn Orchestra will furnish the dance music for the dinner period and also for the cabaret program, which begins at 9:30 p. m.

Warfield Is Expected to Attend Opening of New Penn

David Warfield, one of the associates of Marcus Loew and the United Artists in the ownership of the new Penn Theater, is expected to be present at the opening of that house Labor Day. Mr. Warfield and Mr. Loew became partners many years ago in a penny arcade in New York and from that beginning as business associates has developed a great string of theaters, motion pictures early engaging the attention of the two men.

"As I look back on our penny arcade days in 1900," Mr. Warfield stated, "and those first years and then try to visualize the mighty and far-reaching enterprise that Marcus Loew heads today, it all simply doesn't seem possible. I have no idea how many theaters we have, nor do I know where those we have are located. And the joke of it is Marcus Loew himself doesn't know. We have many theaters now under construction, we naturally cannot be present at every opening nowadays, as we used to do in the early days, but it is both Mr. Loew's and my greatest desire to be present for the opening of Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater in Pittsburgh."

Twins Mix Identities In Fun Act on Harris Stage

THE Romaine Twins, a couple of boys who mix their identities, are responsible for quite a lot of fun in the Harris this week. They are assisted by Betty Duval and Estelle Cawthorne. Tom Mahoney puts across a rather clever monologue and takes inoffensive wallops at both sexes. Fred Santley and Marion Simpson, both from the musical comedy stage, offer a rather snappy and humorous bit, "How Do You Do." Castro Juanita and company, dancers; Shadow and McNeil, in "Broadway Blues," and The Crawfords, in an acrobatic act that is pleasing, complete the vaudeville part of the program. On the screen Tom Mix and his horse, Tony, do their usual stuff—foil the Western badmen and win the girl. The picture title is "Outlaws of Red River." Short film entertainment also is presented.

PITT STOCK PLAYERS REMAIN THIS MONTH

The original booking of the George Sharp Production Company in the Pitt was to have terminated Saturday night, but, because of the large following the company has won, the engagement has been extended five weeks, concluding October 1. In order to take care of the afternoon crowds, Manager Sharp has arranged to put in an extra matinee every week.

Seats go on sale Thursday morning in the Nixon for George White's new musical comedy, "Manhattan Mary," starring Ed Wynn, with Elizabeth Hines and a company of a hundred.

The Alvin will open the new season on Monday afternoon, Labor Day, September 5, with Clark and McCullough in a musical piece, "The Ramblers," which comes to Pittsburgh after a run in the Lyric, New York.

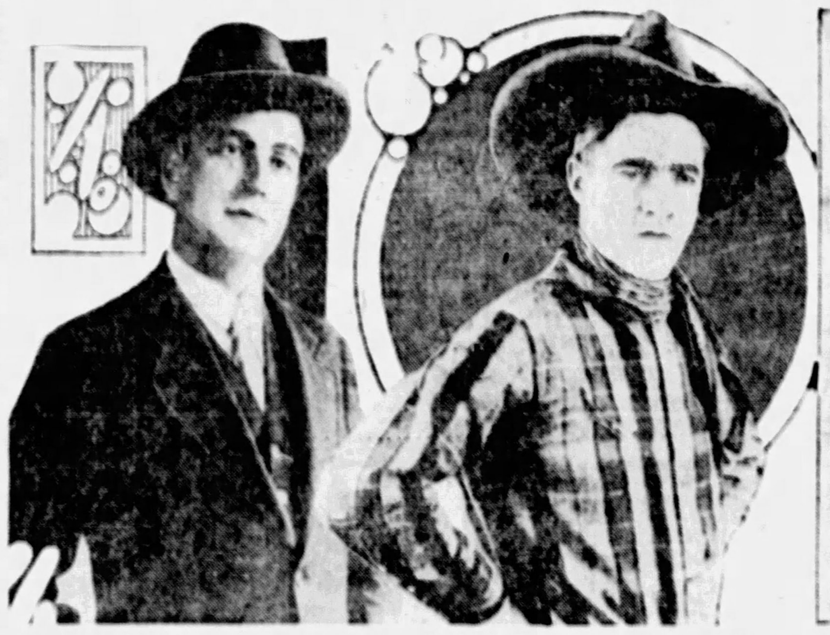
Dancing, music and fun will be furnished by Ned Wayburn's "Variety Show," featuring the "Four Ortons" and Al and Fanny Stedman on the Keith-Albee vaudeville bill in the Davis next week.

Chief Caupolican, Indian baritone, will be seen and heard on the stage of the Grand next week. Norma Talmadge's latest production, "Camille," will be on the screen.

Coming to the Sheridan Square the last half of this week will be the Dunn and West Revue, a combination of singers, dancers and fun-makers new to Pittsburgh.

Numerous pleasing features have been arranged for the remainder of the season at West View Park. Throughout the week Nirella's orchestra, featuring Dorsey, Kelly and McGovern, will play for the nightly park dances. West View amusements will operate this week in full.

Meet Some Folks -:- Who Entertain -:- Here This Week



CAESAR NESI, tenor, whose melodies are a stage feature in movie theaters this season.

TOM MIX, who is sort of well known as a he-man of the great open spaces, is he-manning it in the Harris.

BEN LYON is a nice chap to look at and here you may look at him for nothing. He is on the Davis screen.

LEATRICE JOY has hard work keeping printers from making her name Beatrice. Screen in Sheridan Square.

COMEDY DRAMA IN DAVIS

For the Love of Mike," an entertaining comedy drama, is the feature of the photoplay portion of the bill in the Davis this week. In the picture a Jew, an Irishman and a German take it upon themselves to rear an orphan boy, whom, as an infant, is left before their doorway. The adopted son's experiences at [illegible] lead to many episodes of comedy and some of heart appeal. The cast includes Ben Lyon, George Sidney, Fred Sterling, Claudette Colbert and Hugh Cameron.

There is plenty of variety to the vaudeville half of the program. Dance Vogues," a revue of song, dance and fun, features Tom Allan and Irene Dodge, versatile performers. Jack Joyce, "the boy with the smile," makes his debut in a brief episode on the screen and then appears in person. He chatters, sings and dances. The Four Gregg Sisters put syncopation into their singing with pleasing results. The bobbed-hair one on the right is quite a little comedienne. Johnnie Marvin uses his ukulele and voice entertainingly. Comedy and music are the ingredients of "The Night Club," in which Charlie Abbot and Eddie Hoiland, Flo Perry, the Litt Sisters and Russell Small appear. Olga Cook, songster of the musical comedy stage, and Eric Zardo, concert pianist, win acclaim.

News pictures, a screen comedy and orchestra music complete the program.

WAR FILM AND TALK ARE CAMEO FEATURE

Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Dickson, retired, who was in France with the A. E. F. as a senior combat chaplain, is appearing in person and lecturing in the Cameo this week, in connection with the showing of "Pennsylvania Valor," acclaimed an authentic war film. Lieut. Col. Dickson is making a speaking tour of the country protesting the fables and misrepresentations of the World War that he alleges are printed in 100 or more histories of that conflict. In his talk he uses an immense animated map showing the actual movements of every Pennsylvania division. Col. Dickson contends that the Keystone troops never have received the appreciation and credit they should for the great and important part they played in the war and a view of "Pennsylvania Valor" bears out his belief. Here is no picture with a fiction story and plot, but a real history of real men in action on battlefields. The rain-drenched trenches, the sodden fields, the barbed wire entanglements are screened without a glamour which cloaks the usual film stories.

MUSIC AND PICTURES IN SHERIDAN SQUARE

In the Sheridan Square yesterday "The Garden of Melody" was the principal stage offering in the bill of vaudeville and photoplays. In the "garden" was a group of nine singers and instrumental musicians who presented a melange of popular and semi-classic tunes and songs. The screen feature was "Vanity," with Leatrice Joy and Charles Ray in a drama that held the interest throughout. The climax was a surprise not divulged until the last moment. Ray and Stone, two men in a chatter contest, were the comedy features of the bill. Sully and Mack, in a conventional offering, pleased. Rudell and Dunnigan, in a skit called "Such Is Life," offered a legitimate bit of playwriting and acting. "Canary Cottage," a stage act, a screen comedy, fables and news film completed the bill.

Clara Bow Charming As Screen Tomboy In Grand

By MILDRED FILLMORE.

CORRECTNESS once more, folks. Clara Bow, in "Hula," which is in the Grand, almost got my goat yesterday, almost, but not quite. "Hula" is the part Clara Bow plays in "Hula"—"Hula" Calhoun, so nicknamed because she is a tomboyish daughter of an American planter in Hawaii. She has all the innocence of the child she is and all the wildness of a squirrel. In one scene she decides to "go native" in reaction to what she considers a slight. She goes behind a hedge bush, tears the top rushes for grass skirt, adorns herself with garlands and other paraphernalia for doing the "hula" dance. Her dinner party audience sees her do it, but all the picture audience gets is flashes of a pose here and there and pictures of the merry-makers watching her approvingly. I wanted to join the party, darn it!

She didn't quite get my goat because—well, because she is just too cute, if you know what I mean.

"Hula" Calhoun is just a naive child when an English engineer arrives at her father's place to build an irrigation dam. She promptly falls in love with him and virtually forces her affection upon him. Back home he had left a wife, the mate of a loveless marriage, but he plays square and tells "Hula" he can offer her nothing. Yes, the engineer lad, sincerely and effectively played by Clive Brook, really loves her, so the picture reaches the happy ending when his wife, who has come to see what's what, accommodatingly agrees to go back home and get a divorce.

Story not so good, but the incidental action comedy, enthralling scenes and the beauty and charm of little Miss Clara Bow—she is just too cunning—make it an interesting offering.

William Seabury and Irene Swor, with William Waco's band, featuring Kent Whitmore, were the stage feature, pleasing to all. An Our Gang comedy, "Seeing the World," and News pictures completed the bill.

Au revoir.

MACLEAN IN COMEDY ON OLYMPIC SCREEN

Douglas MacLean, in "Soft Cushions," which audiences of the Olympic witnessed yesterday, plays the younger of three thieves. The time of the story is 1,000 years ago, but the sub-titles, written in a humorous vein, combining such modern expressions as "and how!" with the top-lofty language of the ancient Orient, make it right up to date in ideas. Getting a glimpse of a beautiful slave girl, he promises her owner he will marry her, sit on the "soft cushions" of the Sultan's palace and pull the Sultan's whiskers just as a sort of a sign he has fulfilled his pledge. He does it all as a result of being arrested as a thief. Appealing his case before several lower judges, each of whom sentence him to all kinds of torture, but each keeping the girl, both finally find themselves before the Sultan, MacLean disguised as one of the judges who had sentenced him. As such he gets the real judge in bad as a conspirator and himself on "soft cushions" as one who saves the life of the Sultan. There are oodles of gorgeous scenes and plenty of comedy action, with Sue Carol, looking like the loveliest slave girl who ever escaped a harem. Pictures of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight in New York are another attraction. The Vitaphone features operatic and other selections. News pictures and an Aesop's fable complete the bill.

"BOZO" SNYDER IN GAYETY

The Gayety opened its doors for the season yesterday afternoon with a matinee presentation of Tommy "Bozo" Snyder's revue. The performance was repeated in the evening, and it will be offered twice daily throughout the remainder of the week. The show, in two acts of six scenes each, is made up of a series of singing and dancing and comedy sketches, which were received with much cordiality by the audience. Snyder, known as "the man who never speaks," was the principal in most of the comedy scenes, his pantomime being the cause of many laughs. Sam Green acted as his "feeder."

Beatrice Tracy sang a number of songs in a manner that pleased. Walter Kelly and Charles Judson comprised a stepping duo whose dancing was liked. Frank Donaldson, James Brown and Al Lorraine sang well as a trio. There were a number of effective song scenes in which the chorus participated, an outstanding one being "The Lady of the Fan," sung by Miss Rae Davis and the chorus, opening with the latter hidden behind huge fans of gaily colored ostrich plumes. The finale of the first act was a cabaret scene, in which various members of the company performed in specialties, the scene being instantly changed from a night club to a Salvation Army barracks when it was announced police were coming to raid the place. It was a surprising and novel tableau.

The large audience last night found itself in what appeared to be an entirely new Gayety. The auditorium has been richly redecorated in gold leaf and mellow tints tastefully applied.

"BAND BOX REVUE" SHOWN IN ACADEMY

"Band Box Revue," this week's burlesque in the Academy, is a combination of songs and travesties. Anna Propp, a diminutive soubret, offered fast stepping and vocal numbers. "Shickee," a "shimmy" dancer, was seen in her specialties. One of the novelties, "Silver Forest," presented by Clyde Shater and girls, introduced Henri Nelser, a contortionist, in his act, called "The Frog." A musical act was presented by eight saxophone players in both jazz and classical selections. Comedy scenes in the performance had Jack Erickson as the chief jester. Al Flatton had an amusing specialty in "Jifferney." "My Own Bootlegger" and "Life in Jail" were travesty sketches. Prominent in the cast were Margie Burke and Ruth Darling. The scenic and costume effects were attractive.

High Blood Pressure Caused By Poison

How to Remove the Cause With a Natural Remedy

High blood pressure is almost always the result of accumulated body poisons due to constipation or faulty elimination.

Get rid of these deadly poisons, stimulate the liver, assist the kidneys and sweep toxic matter from the intestines by taking Lithurie salts before breakfast for a week. Because it contains no sodium chloride or sugar—because it is composed only of valuable, natural mineral salts with fruit acids of lemons and grapes, Lithurie salts is not only harmless but can be depended upon to give quick results in reducing blood pressure and toning up the system generally. Once More

$1 Boxes of Luxurious Face Powder Being Presented FREE

× × × ×

You Receive One as a Gift With $1 Purchase Of Any Other Toilet Needs

AGAIN, Madame and Mademoiselle, we invite you to accept as a gift a full-size dollar box of Raquel Face Powder.

This is the newest development in face powder. Girls and women who have used it are lavish with their praise. It is so luxurious, so delightfully light and soft, so caressing and clinging, so invisible, so beneficent to the skin, so alluringly scented, that it is like a fairy's blessing on the cheeks.

If you but try it, we are confident you will want to use it ever afterwards. That is why we have arranged a second opportunity to test this superb powder at our expense.

At Any Store Displaying This Offer

AT any department store in Pittsburgh or surrounding towns, or at any drug store displaying this offer, simply go to the toilet-goods counter and select any toilet requisites you happen to need either for yourself or family—face cream, rouge, lipstick, talc, tooth paste, tooth brush, shaving cream, perfume, whatever you wish, and of any brand you prefer; if your purchases altogether amount to $1 or more, just hand in the coupon at the bottom of this advertisement and a full size dollar box of Raquel Face Powder will be presented to you absolutely free—with our compliments and the compliments of the store.

Please Don't Delay

THIS unusual offer is being repeated by request. The stores co-operating with us quickly exhausted the supply of Raquel Face Powder originally allotted to them for presentation as gifts. Each store has now been allotted a second supply. But we can't promise how long it will last. If you wish a free package, we urge you to be prompt. This offer cannot be extended again.

Look over your supply of toilet requirements both for yourself and your family. See what you need. Then buy immediately, instead of waiting—and obtain free, in exchange for the coupon, a dollar box of this superb powder. It's the newest aid to loveliness.

So That One's Face May Ever Look Its Loveliest

IMPARTING added loveliness without evidence of its artful aid—that is the supreme artistry in this superb new face powder by Raquel.

To the casual glance, its presence is quite unapparent—so suitably and perfectly does it blend with the natural coloring; but its pleasing effect is instantly and always apparent.

The way it stays on is a daily delight. A single application keeps your face looking its freshest and prettiest for hours at a time.

Yet it contains not a particle of cold cream or grease or other stickiness. It is luxuriously light and fluffy.

It does not roll, streak, run or scale. It is absolutely pure. In short, a perfect powder.

In all shades. Alluring with the strangely fascinating scent of Olor de la Noche—or Fragrance of the Night.

Here's the Way

To Lighten Cloudy Teeth

That Movies' $100,000 Stars Use and Leading Dentists Urge

Please Accept 10-Day Tube and Make This Remarkable Dental Test

NOW dull, dingy, "off-color" teeth are restored to dazzling whiteness a new way.

Famous movie stars use this way before going on a scene. That's why movie smiles glisten so. Leading dentists urge it widely. For it protects the teeth and firms tender gums.

It works by removing a dingy film that forms on your teeth, absorbing discolorations from food, smoking, etc. A slippery film you can feel with your tongue, that invites germ growth, decayed teeth and gum troubles.

Old-type dentifrices failed to remove it successfully. That's why brushing thus far failed you.

Clear it off. Beneath it are glistening, clear teeth. One's whole appearance thus often changes.

The name is Pepsodent. Let us send you a tube to try. Or buy large tube at your druggist.

DRIVER BOUNCES PASSENGER OUT, SPEEDS ON

When an automobile driven by Charles W. Murdy, 33, of 535 Center avenue, Verona, crashed into a pillar at the south end of the Smithfield Street Bridge shortly after last midnight, throwing his father-in-law, Thomas Hardy, 60, of 1828 West Liberty avennue, to the bridge floor, Murdy kept right on going, police say.

While Hardy was being taken to the South Side Hospital, suffering from a broken nose and severe lacerations, Murdy collided at Bea and West Liberty avenues with a milk wagon driven by Mike Welsh, 2714 Connecticut avenue, Dormont. The drivers were cut and bruised and the vehicles damaged.

Murdy was arrested and held for Traffic Court. Police at the South Side Station said he had been drinking.

HOSTESS LOSES PATRONS, CASH

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—"I'll take the cash box instead," was the astonishing rejoinder of a man who pointed a revolver at Miss Carol Felland, hostess in a fashionable tea room here as she smilingly presented a menu card.

As the hostess and about a dozen women, screamed in fear, the bandit fled with the cash-box containing $80.

In the confusion which arose, the women fled. Now the hostess mourns the loss of the cash receipts, and payment for luncheons served the women.

AIR POLICEMAN NABS FLYER

By Universal Service.

NACOGDOCHES, TEX., Aug. 30.—Uncle Sam's flying policeman made his first arrest in Texas. And S. E. Richter, Austin aviator, is facing charges of flying an airplane with false numbers.

The arrest was made by Parker Kramer, air inspector for the Department of Commerce. While flying above Nacogdoches, Kramer spotted the false numbers on Richter's plane and forced him to land near here.

Richter's plane was seized.

AGENT FLEECES 40 WOMEN

Forty housewives of the East street district, Wilkinsburg, who recently paid 50 cents each to an agent toward the purchase price of a percolator to be delivered later, will have to continue using the old coffee pot, for a time at least. The supposed agent was a bunko man, Wilkinsburg police say. The percolator exhibited was the genuine product of a local concern and a $1 article which the canvasser offered for $1.

PORTER BACKS GOLLMAR CANDIDACY FOR BENCH

The independent candidacy of Judge Frank I. Gollmar to succeed himself has been indorsed by Congressman Stephen G. Porter in a letter written to T. A. "I have known Frank for many years as a very capable, upright young man, fully qualified in every way to discharge the duties of the office to which he aspires," wrote Porter. On August 20, police say, Ostheim was bumped to the street by Robert Manuel, 30, a Negro, of 218 South Twenty-first street, suffering a fracture of the right hip. Manuel was arrested and fined, but is being hunted today to be turned over to the coroner.

Sally Jerome Learns 'Beau' Has Not Returned; Millie Makes a Suggestion

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Sally Jerome, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family, which consists of Mrs. Jerome, the twins, Beau and Millie, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for Mr. Peevey downtown afternoons. In the flat above the Jeromes lives young Ted Sloan, an automobile salesman, who wants her to marry him and keep on working. But the only man in whom she is interested is John Nye, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's in the Nye-Naylor Building. Nye hires the siren Millie as his secretary. He becomes blindly infatuated with her. Beau and Millie spend most of their earnings on themselves, and rarely give anything toward the upkeep of the house. Beau suddenly blossoms out with some flashy new clothes, lends Millie some money, and buys the liquor for a party given by his girl, Mabel Wilmot. Sally is instantly suspicious, not only because Beau works in a bank, but because he was light-fingered as a boy. The crisis comes on a Saturday night when Ted Sloan, angry with Sally because of her coldness toward him, tells her that Beau got $110 from him by means of two bad checks and threatens to make trouble for him. Sally borrows the money to pay him from Mr. Peevey and turns it over to Beau to take to him. Beau leaves the flat and Sally does not see him return.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE crushed the bills into his hand, and ran out of the room, blinded by her tears and shaking from head to foot.

Fifteen minutes later, when she had hung up her wet clothes and put on a warm flannel kimono, she went back to the living room.

Beau was not there.

She opened the door that led into the hall and listened. No sound came from the lower floor. . . . Beau must have given the money to Ted and then gone straight to his own room to bed.

But the door of his room stood open, and there was no light in it.

"Beau," Sally whispered, standing in the doorway, "Beau, are you there?" There was no answer.

She stepped inside and pressed the button that controlled the lights. They flashed up.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE minute Sally switched on the lights she saw that something was wrong.

For Beau's bed had not been touched. The spread was as smooth and white as a drift of virgin snow.

His pajamas were folded over the foot-rail, and on the little bedside table lay a package of cigarets and an "adventure" magazine.

But his dresser-top had been cleared of everything except one thing. The brushes were gone. The whisk-broom, the jar of hair pomade, and the tin of talcum powder were all gone. Nothing was left but a large picture of Mabel Wilmot in a Dutch silver frame.

Mabel had given it to Beau the Christmas before, and Sally knew that Beau prized it beyond all other earthly possessions, just as his passion for Mabel was far and away the biggest thing in his life.

As she looked at the photograph, Sally knew that wherever Beau had gone, Mabel was with him. He never would have left that picture behind him unless his lady-love, herself, were with him in the flesh! That much was certain.

But everything else was mystery. . . . Why had Beau gone away when he had the money to make good his disgraceful debt to Ted Sloan? Where had he gone? . . . And when had he packed his bags and made his plans to go?

"He must have slipped out of the house while I was bathing and changing my clothes," Sally said to herself, slowly putting the thing together like a paper pattern.

Then another thought struck her. Beau had been telephoning Mabel when she came in 20 minutes ago! They had been making their plans to get away then! It was just like Beau to run away from the scrape he had got himself into, instead of standing pat and facing the thing. Beau was weak and foolish, and there was no getting away from it.

"But he didn't have to go after I gave him the money for Ted," thought Sally, opening the empty dresser drawers one after another and closing them again. "He had the money to square himself with."

But had he given the money to Ted? . . . The sudden thought that perhaps he had not, but had kept it instead, took Sally's breath away for an instant . . . . The hundred dollars she had borrowed from Mr. Peevey was a small fortune to Sally. Wasn't it going to take her a whole year to pay it back at $2 a week? And what if Beau had taken it along with him instead of paying Ted Sloan

"Oh, he couldn't have done such a thing! He wouldn't have dared to do such a thing!" Sally told herself. But she wasn't really sure that he had not taken it, and with a rush of her small-slippered feet she was out of his room, out of the flat and down on the dimly-lighted first-floor landing, knocking at the Sloans' front door.

After four or five minutes there was a faint sound within the flat, the door opened and Ted stood there in his bathrobe, staring at her and much too surprised to speak.

"Has Beau seen you? Has he given you the money"—that is, has he given you a hundred dollars?" Sally's words tumbled out of her mouth in queer, jerky little sentences.

"Oh, sure, that's a game of his—handing me out a hundred dollars!" Sally's words tumbled out of her mouth in queer, jerky little sentences.

Levine and Lindbergh Have One Thing in Common—Rogers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—I see the custom authorities in England searched the 'round-the-world fliers when they landed. I guess they thought the boys had smuggled over a couple of baby grands or some early Oklahoma furniture.

I was there last summer when Gertrude Ederle swam in and they searched her. Figured she had brought in some cigars or cigarets or millinery in the pockets of her bathing suit, I reckon.

People tell you England has no humor. Why, they are funny even when they don't try to be.

The Congressman-at-Large,
WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—Did you ever see two people as much alike as Levine and Lindbergh? Both their names begin with an L.

Take Boy's Body From Mine Cave-In

SCRANTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—After hours of desperate digging at risk of their lives, workmen early today succeeded in recovering the body of John Dobransky, 8, who was buried alive in a cave-in at Olyphant yesterday morning.

Twenty-five men, would-be rescuers of the lad, and other spectators narrowly escaped sharing his fate in a later series of cave-ins in the vicinity of the abandoned working of the Hudson Coal Company, into which Dobransky plunged when the ground sank beneath him.

The youngster dropped 25 feet into the mine vein and was buried beneath the crumbled earth.

Late last night two more cave-ins occurred. The middle of a street disappeared into the mine and another section sank about one foot for a distance of 100 feet.

WRECKED FLIERS RELEASED BY MEXICO

By Universal Service.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Aug. 30.—Captain C. H. Reynolds and Sergeant Gus Newland, Second Division Air Service pilots, held prisoners in the Presidio at Vada Piedras, Quah., Mexico, since Saturday, when their plane was forced down near that place, have been ordered released in Mexico City, according to a telegram received at Eighth Corps headquarters at Fort Sam Houston.

Colonel J. C. McArthur, chief of staff of the Second Division, appealed to Mexican Consul General A. J. Carrillo, asking that the two military aviators be freed.

Release of the fliers was obtained but their plane is still being held by customs officials.

Captain Reynolds and Sergeant Newland were captured by Mexicans when they made a forced landing near Vada De Piedras while en route from Phoenix, Ariz., where they had been searching the desert for Alfred C. Menard, shell shocked war veteran who went into the desert with the avowed purpose of losing himself.

The big Douglas transport plane was not damaged in landing.

TWO CLAIM MAN; HE'S HELD FOR COURT

Romance that blossomed into bigamy across the footlights of a Broadway theater reached Morals Court today when Leo Vetere, 32, of Brooklyn, N. Y., heard wife No. 1 plead for the return of the father of her two children from wife No. 2, a Broadway showgirl, formerly of Pittsburgh.

The second wife, Rose McGlumphy, 22, of 192 Forty-seventh street, testified that when she took Vetere for better or worse in June, she was unaware that he had other matrimonial obligations.

She was dancing in a Broadway chorus, the Pittsburgh girl explained, and Leo was a cornetist in the orchestra at the same theater. She danced to his music and he played to her dancing. And the courtship was swift. When she left New York for Pittsburgh, Leo followed, leaving behind his wife and two children, it is alleged.

Wife No. 1, destitute, followed, her trainfare paid, she said, by Leo's parents. She wanted her husband back, she told Magistrate A. D. Brandon, and she wanted him to support the family he had been ignoring.

The court held Vetere for court trial on charges of desertion and non-support.

SEEK MOTIVE IN GANG KILLING

In search for the slayer of James LaRosa, 35, of 1328 Fifth avenue, who on Sunday was made the nineteenth victim of Pittsburgh gang warfare since January 1, detectives today were attempting to determine why LaRosa became a "marked" man.

LaRosa was known for his activities in the white slave trade, and also was suspected in the killing of Frank Sansoni, his bodyguard, and Joe Smith, his one-time partner.

Weeks before his death, LaRosa told friends he was being watched and that he would be killed. Saturday night he visited many persons and told them it likely would be the last time they would see him alive. LaRosa never revealed the identity of his enemies.

"Mickey" Knows How It Feels to Be Spanked

SINIA, Rumania, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Michael, the boy king of Rumania, knows how it feels to be spanked, and he has as much dread of being sent to bed without supper as any ordinary youngster.

Except on formal occasions he is addressed by all who know him as "Mickey," for, his mother says, he has no real conception of the meaning of "your majesty."

"Until he has grown up I think it's just as well if he doesn't know the significance of 'your majesty,'" the Princess Mother Helen remarked to a correspondent.

"I want him to be just as natural, unaffected and unspoiled as an ordinary American boy. Everybody still calls him 'Baby' or 'Mickey.' That is how all the children in my family were brought up, and that's how I shall rear Mickey.

"That is why I selected for him the same sweet, simple, unassuming English nurse who reared me from babyhood."

While the princess mother was talking with the correspondent on the lawn of the summer palace here, "Mischievous Mickey" began pulling his pet dog's tail.

"If you do that again, Mickey, I'll give you a good smack," his mother told him.

The boy was back at his mischief again after a few moments of quiet, and only desisted when his mother threatened to send him to bed without his supper.

Worst Fires in World History

THE world's greatest disasters due to fire were London, 1666; Moscow, 1812; Chicago and Paris, both 1871; Boston, 1872; Baltimore, 1904; San Francisco, 1906, and Salonica, 1917.

Dorothy Dix Says:

WOMEN WANT ROMANCE AND AME RICAN HUSBANDS DON'T SUPPLY IT.

AN IMPOSTOR who posed as a nobleman and who married 40 rich women, out of whom he is believed to have got as much as a million dollars, has been explaining how he did it.

"I did not cheat them," he says. "I gave them their money's worth. I gave them something worth all the dollars they had or ever will have. I gave them Romance.

"Take any woman, rich or poor, and give her the choice between a life of wealthy loneliness and of romance—a swift, overwhelming, glorious romance of the kind most American women never know—and she will choose romance.

"Women want romance. They want money, but they can get along without that. But they perish without romance.

"American men don't know the meaning of romance. Most of them go on brief honeymoons and then drop their wives and marry their stock-tickers. They are too busy making money to have time to make a woman happy.

"I typify Romance. I dress carefully and a little ahead of the fashion. I have manner. I kiss the hand. I am unfailingly polite and always anticipate a woman's wish. American husbands don't do these things. They grow fat and talk business. I am different."

And so the women listened to the man who told them the things they had been hungering to hear all their lives and handed over their pocketbooks to him. It was as easy as all that. Nor need one wonder at it. When you are starving you grab at the first morsel of food that is offered you. You do not stop to investigate if it is wholesome, whole-wheat bread or to see whether it has the pure-food label on it or not.

This is not the first time, nor will it be the last, that women have fallen and will fall for the glib-tongued lovemaker who woos them in lovely, soulful, old-fashioned novel language and who offers them a slice of the angel's food of romance for which every mother's daughter of us pines and which very few of us ever taste.

For even the women who get married seldom get more than a scant nibble at it, and this is the unconfessed grievance that even the wives of good men have against their husbands.

They know that their husbands love them. Good heavens! Doesn't John work himself to death to prove it, and doesn't he say it with his check book? Every day he gives a proof of devotion strong enough to borrow money on at the bank. But, no matter how long he is on affection, he is short on romance. There is no glamor, no thrills, just plain roast beef medium and mashed potatoes.

Even his courtship was a mere honorable statement of his intentions, and when he popped the question it was in as businesslike a way as if he were asking for an option on her hand for 30 years F. O. B. at the altar.

Most women burst into tears when men propose to them, and the men think that it is because they are overcome with joy at getting such good things as they are, but in reality the women are crying out loud with chagrin and disappointment at the prosaic, commonplace way in which they have done it.

The big moment of their lives, to which they had been looking forward ever since they were little girls in pigtails, has been ruined. Their last chance at romance is gone. They are never going to hear the impassioned speech that they pine and long to hear and which they have dreamed of treasuring in their memories and repeating to their grandchildren when the are withered old women.

The American husband is the best husband in the world and the worst lover. He gives his wife everything in the world she wants except the thing she wants most, and that is sentiment. And if before marriage he is a dumb Romeo who finds courtship arduous and embarrassing and boresome, after marriage he is both dumb and blind, and he cuts out the soft talk entirely.

There are thousands upon thousands of women whose husbands stopped all lovemaking on their honeymoon with a suddenness that jarred the bride's back teeth loose. Plenty of women are thereafter bound to take it for granted that their husbands still feel an affection for them, since they have not divorced them. But their husbands never show them any tenderness, they never pay them a compliment, they never notice what they have on or whether they are sick or well, or happy or miserable. And, so far as the wives can see, they are regarded with no more personal feeling than their husbands have for the kitchen range or the electric light or any other household convenience.

And the tragedy of all this is that the women cannot satisfy themselves with the knowledge that their husbands probably still care for them. It is not enough for them that their husbands provide them with food and clothes and cars and trips to Europe. They want love. The want sentiment. They want romance. They want to be flattered. They want something to put pep into their days.

It is this that makes women the easy prey of an adventurer who comes along who makes burning, passionate love to them and who makes them feel—even for an hour—that they are the heroines in the great adventure of which they have dreamed so long. It is this soul hunger that makes otherwise sensible women run off after long-haired prophets of strange cults. It is because women cannot get at home the food for which they starve that makes respectable wives and mothers get into compromising affairs with lounge lizards and dancing partners in tearooms and write fool mash notes to movie sheiks.

Half of the idiotic things women do is the result of their search for romance. Half of the unhappiness from which they suffer is the lack of romance in their lives. And this being so, it is a pitiful thing to thing that husbands will not take the trouble to show their wives the few little attentions and say the few kind words by which they get such undue store and which would make them happy and contented.

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

TRIFLES, LIGHT AS SUMMER LOVE.

A woman's love will survive a thousand stabs in the back—and then die from a slap in the face.

* * *

The great vital problem of many a modern girl's life is how to look bold and daring, and at the same time hide a pair of knotty knees.

Helen Rowland.

Every man says that the woman he marries must be "broad-minded, intelligent and up-to-date"—and secretly hopes that she won't.

* * *

A "reasonable woman" is one who never asks the reason of anything a man does or stops to reason about anything he tells her.

Love may be an obsolete emotion in the opinion of the younger generation; but the lawyers are making a pretty good living out of what's left of it.

Solomon is dead; but the world is still full of men who fancy that they could "string along" several hundred women without half trying.

DIPLOMACY.

I do not CHOOSE to kiss you,
(I do not say I won't!)
But I simply use that doubtful "choose,"
Whether I do or I don't.

I do not CHOOSE to love you—
(I do not say I shan't!)
But it's not MY voice, for I have no "choice,"
Whether I can or I can't!

No man can be a lover and a critic at the same time.

TODAY'S FASHION

Blouse and Sweater Anticipate the Early Fall Styles.

THE popularity of the two- and three-piece costumes for sports and street wear is more brought an importance to the blouse and s.

type of sweater with the round neck and straight lines is particularly good for sports costumes. It can be worn with jackets and jumpers and the universally popular plaited skirt. Diagonal stripes in contrasting colors lend a novel note.

To wear with the fall suit, a crepe de Chine blouse is exceedingly smart. Pins tucks on the shoulder and cuffs, as well as horizontally on the bodice, with a flat bow of the material on the shoulder, are the only trimming.

Potato Cakes.

Mash well cold or hot boiled potatoes and add salt to taste. Stir in enough sweet milk to moisten well, not thin. Make into round, flat shapes, ½ inch thick, roll in cornmeal and fry. Turn with pancake turner and brown.

To Remove Candle Wax.

These stains do not spread but harden where they fall. Scrape away as much as possible with a paper cutter. Then stretch the material, lay a piece of white blotting paper over it and use a warm iron. If there still remains a stain or mark sponge with a little wood alcohol.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator From New York

"EARLY TO BED" GOOD AS HEALTH PRACTICE.

MANY times I have repeated this old rhyme about the hours of sleep.

"Nature takes five and custom takes seven, laziness nine, and wickedness eleven."

DR. COPELAND

But there is no hard and fast rule. One person needs a lot. Another can get along on an amazingly small quantity of sleep.

Personally, I need a great deal of sleep. My mother did. My father seemed to be indifferent to the number of hours, provided he had two or three before midnight.

There is an old saying that "an hour of sleep before midnight is worth two hours after." This is a pretty accurate statement of fact. There is no virtue in late hours. You may pride yourself on never going to bed the same day you get up, but I don't approve of that system.

Of course, your manner of living must determine this. If you are an actor, or a night operator, you will have the opportunity the next day to make up the loss of sleep. But if you are a day worker, you'd better be in bed before midnight.

Children of eight years or less should be in bed at 8 o'clock. After they are 10 they may stay up till 9, perhaps. "To bedibus 9 o'clockibus," is a famous and reliable prescription. No matter how little sleep the grownups have, the children should have at least 10 hours. The rest of us will be well off if we get eight hours.

There is no affliction much worse than sleeplessness. To lie awake at night, night after night, is terrible. In the middle of the night our thoughts are black as the midnight itself. Then when we fall asleep in the early morning, there is no refreshment in the slumber. We get up as tired as when we went to bed.

The most likely cause of sleeplessness is constipation. The poisons absorbed from a crowded intestine have a distressing effect on the health.

What are other causes of loss of sleep?

Smoking too much, or drinking too much coffee or other stimulants may produce it.

Eyestrain or reading too long by a bad light may develop such nervousness as to drive sleep from the eyelids.

A stuffy bedroom, absolutely lacking in fresh air may make you restless and sleepless. To be too warmly covered, or to go to bed without enough cover, will keep you awake.

Worry is a cause for every evil symptom. It will ruin the sleep of the strongest man. Debt, doubt and despair are dreadful factors of trouble.

To be bored with yourself and your surroundings will keep you awake. This symptom should be a warning to give yourself recreation or a change of surroundings.

Never resort to drugs. It is deadly to do so. Find out what is wrong and when the cause of the sleeplessness has been removed, you will sleep like a baby.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 31, 1927.

RATHER an uncertain day, according to astrology, but benefic aspects dominate.

Under this planetary government women should benefit greatly and they should feel stimulated to perform serious works, especially that connected with public service.

There is a sway making for happiness for those married under this rule, for love should be lasting.

It is read as favorable to romance in all its forms and should make for proposals of marriage, from even the most cautious of bachelors.

This is not an auspicious rule for those who seek employment and despite the promising aspects for women they will be wise to delay applications for positions.

Theaters and all places of amusement should prosper under this sway, which promises good luck to motion picture producers.

This is a favorable day for beginning sea voyages and homecomers from Europe should be especially fortunate.

Again oil and all who hold interests in its production are subject to a favorable direction of the stars.

New consumption of gasoline and similar products is to be greatly extended, it is prognosticated.

The stock markets are to be spectacularly interesting in the autumn when many extraordinary fluctuations will be recorded.

Speculation in grains, and especially in wheat, is forecast, for there will be a rise in values.

Rise in the cost of living will be perceptible and it will be a matter of protest in Great Britain, the seers prognosticate.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of great success in business trades or deals in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will succeed best in independent business ventures. They should have prosperous careers.

Fruit Stains.

Fruit stains generally may be removed by boiling water. The citrus fruits often make a persistent stain that can only be removed by using potassium permanganate. On table linens lemon juice and sunlight often remove stains. Ice cream stains that contain berries, coloring matter and sugar, sometimes eggs and cream, generally respond to boiling water and white soap.

Quicksands of Love

A New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

KATIE'S face was troubled as I looked at Noel Veritzen's card, which she had just brought me.

"I know you no want to see anybody," she said, "you so busy, and I tell heem so, but he say it something like life and dest' and dey he only keep you run mermit, so I bring heem."

I looked past her for the young man before I realized that Katie, according to her invariable habit was referring to the inanimate card as "heem."

"Bring him in at once, Katie," I directed, for I would have seen young Noel Veritzen at any time, no matter what his errand. His message, however, stirred an odd little premonition within me. Did his coming to me upon a business of "life and death"—I did not doubt that Katie had quoted him correctly—mean something of personal moment to me or did he simply desire my aid for himself or someone dear to him?

I had not long to wait for the answer to my question, for when Katie ushered in young Noel Veritzen he came swiftly across the room, bent to kiss my hand in the charming foreign fashion to which I guessed his father had trained him in his boyhood, then broke into hurried, agitated speech.

"Dear Mrs. Graham," he began. "I know it is unforgivable to trouble you this way, but I have no one else. And I want to ask so great a favor of you."

He was shaking as he spoke, and I took him by the arm and led him to a chair.

"Sit down," I said firmly, "and stop worrying about imposing on me. I am sure I can grant any favor you wish to ask of me."

There was gratitude in his dark eyes—so like his father's, only with more gentleness and goodness in them—as he looked up at me. There was something else also, something queerly like the mirror of a struggle. I had the fleeting impression that he had a curious impulse to tell me something and had conquered it.

"Did you ever see the masked dancer at the night-club where I play the violin?" he asked.

"No," I replied steadily, although something about the inquiry made my pulses beat faster. "I went to see her one night, but she was ill and did not appear."

"I remember," young Veritzen said. "Your husband kept me from murder that night. I would have killed that swine of a Leslie, for I was beside myself. Afterward I realized that was not the best way to serve the—girl—I—love."

He brought out the words slowly, but with emphasis, and his eyes, fixed on mine, held the queer, inscrutable expression I had noticed a few minutes before.

"She is an angel, Mrs. Graham," he went on, and I suppressed a smile with difficulty—"a sweet, innocent angel, but with a devil trying to drag her down. Oh, I've been keeping track of Leslie's plans. I've stooped to bribery and countenanced theft to keep myself conversant with his plans, and now I've found out what he means to do."

He looked around the room and lowered his voice.

"Can anyone hear me?" he asked fearfully, and I saw that in his excitement he had forgotten how necessary secrecy probably was to whatever plan he was concocting. I rose and locked both doors leading to the living-room.

"No one can enter now without our having fair warning," I said. "If you keep your voice lowered no one but myself possibly can hear."

"Thank you," he muttered, and swept hastily on.

"So far Leslie's kept her in ignorance of what he really is. He's made love to her and asked her to marry him. I've found that out, but she's kept him at arm's length. Why, I don't know, for I'm afraid she's in love with him, or at least attracted by him. I've found out, however, that some night soon he means to take her to his apartment upon the pretext of having a little party there for just a half hour or so—it seems she insists upon going straight home, after every performance, but she's finally consented to go to this party. It won't be a party, Mrs. Graham. Leslie plans to be the only one there except the masked dancer.

(To be continued.)

Reminiscent of the little greeting cards of many years ago, decorated with the clasped hands of a man and woman encircled with roses, are the hands, back to back, instead of clasped, on the new divorce rings. Jin isn't interested, but Ritzy Rosey is wondering why a divorce ring deserves a precious stone surrounded by engraved hands.

Sally's Shoulders

ENGROSSING DIFFERENT LIVELY DRAMATIC

By BEATRICE BURTON

Sally Jerome Learns 'Beau' Has Not Returned; Millie Makes a Suggestion

lure in the middle of the night," Ted answered, his lips twisting in a sarcastic smile. "Sure, he gave me the money—I don't think!"

Sally groaned.

"Oh, but I gave it to him, Ted!" she half whispered, leaning against the side of the door. "I gave it to him and he said he'd take it to you . . . and now he's gone! Most of his clothes are gone! And Mabel must be with him—"

She stopped suddenly. . . . Oh, but she mustn't do this! She mustn't give Beau away like this! Ted knew far too much about him and his dishonesty as it was.

"He probably tried to wake you up and couldn't," she said, recovering herself. "I had to pound on the door for fully five minutes before you heard me just now. . . . He may have left the money upstairs somewhere. I'll run up and look."

But she knew that Beau had not left it there. She knew exactly what Beau had done with the money. He had put it in his pocket and gone to meet his Mabel.

Ted Sloan knew it, too. His suspicious eyes told her that as she looked back at him on her way up the stairs.

"I won't come down again tonight," she told him in a whisper, "If your mother finds me out here she'll never get over it. . . . See you in the morning."

Ted's mother was just as afraid that he would marry Sally as Mrs. Jerome was afraid that Sally would marry Ted and leave her to shift for herself.

There was a light in the kitchen when Sally reached the living room of the flat. And through the doorway she could see Millie, standing beside the table, holding a bit of paper in her hand.

"Sally!" she cried, raising her head at the sound of Sally's soft ills on the dining room rug. here and look at this. He's eloped with Mabel! ou ever hear of such a ! y read the note, looking her shoulder. It was ad- ed to her.

ar Sal," Beau had written, ry to have to borrow the roll, but it's a Godsend to me now. Mabel and I are go- to get married some time to- n now and tomorrow morn- We were going to, anyway, ly soon, but I figured that if sat it now it might throw a e into Ted Sloan. 'm banking on you to talk into tearing up those checks calling it a day. You can do it if you want to. BEAU."

Sally's smooth forehead knotted itself into a frown as she read the few badly-written lines.

What a piece of crooked thinking Beau had done! . . . There had been no need to "throw a scare" into Ted Sloan after he had the $100 to make good his debt to him. . . . All he had to do, then, was to walk down stairs and give Ted the money and get the two checks from him. Any in an instant he would have had the whole mess cleared up and been a free man!

"Then why did he run away without paying what he owed?" she asked herself in that simple, clear-thinking way of hers.

Suddenly she saw. Because he needed some extra money for his honeymoon and saw this way of getting it! . . . And he was depending on her to coax and cajole into tearing up the two ut could send him to deep blue eyes re-read the two last sentences: "I'm banking on you to talk him into tearing up those checks and calling it a day. You can do it if you want to."

For a fleeting second Sally almost hated her brother. What he meant was that she was to use all her lure to keep Ted from turning him over to the police. It was as plain as plain could be that that was exactly what he meant.

"And he knows that I don't like Ted," she said to herself. "But he'd ask me to do a thing like that!" The very thought made her feel guilty and ashamed, somehow.

"What are you going to do about it?" asked the slow, silken voice of Millie in her ear.

"What would you do?" asked Sally wildly. She was all at sea, herself.

"Me? Why, I'd see Ted Sloan and vamp him into tearing up those checks that Beau's written about," answered Millie. "I don't know what checks they are, but I suppose Beau's given a couple of bad ones! It would be just like him, wouldn't it?"

Sally turned on her in mild horror. "Millie, you don't mean what you're saying!" she cried. "You wouldn't 'vamp' a man whom you detested, would you?"

Millie laughed. "I'd do most anything in a case like this," she drawled. "Sally, you take things so seriously. Suppose you do let Ted Sloan hold your hand or put you on the neck, or something. It's not going to hurt you—and it might do a lot of good! A girl can do most anything with a man if she gets him goofy over her."

She laughed again at the look in her sister's eyes. "Jimmy, but you're good!" she said. "Pure and cold as the Alpine snow—that's you, honey! Sometimes I can't believe you're my sister!"

Sally looked at her for a long moment, trying to understand her—trying to see how Millie looked at things—at life and love and her own desires.

Then she picked up Beau's little scrawl and walked out of the kitchen.

"You're beyond me, Millie," she spoke, turning her head to look back at Millie, who was putting out the light. "I don't get you at all. Come on, let's go to bed and forget this 'til tomorrow."

CHAPTER XX

SLEEP played hide-and-seek with Sally Jerome that night until the wee small hours of three.

Then, just as she was dozing off, the slow, soft voice of Millie came from the darkness on the other side of the room, and wakened her.

"It's too bad I'm not the one that Ted Sloan likes," she drawled. "Isn't it?"

"Why?" asked Sally, after a minute.

"Because it wouldn't be any trouble to me to get those checks away from him," the young siren explained. "I'd just tell him that if he cared about me he'd tear them up and forget them. . . . Why don't you tell him that? He's so crazy about you that he'd do it if you asked him—in the right way."

There was a long, heavy silence, and then Sally spoke:

"I couldn't take advantage of his liking me, Millie."

The other girl laughed. "You sure are a Duff!" she said serenely. "You'll never get to first base in this world with ideas like that, Sally. . . . What do you suppose a girl has looks for except to make some man do the things she wants him to do? And there isn't much use in having Ted Sloan crazy about you, unless you can make him tear up the checks or give them to you. I bet I could make him do it, believe you me!"

Merely Margy, An Awtully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

"HONestly, my dear, this ARab simply SLAYS me because I mean I am TERribly fed up with his LINE at this point because he is forEVER GABbing on and ON about NOTHing at ALL. SIMply for the sake of hearing himself TALK, which would be all right with ME if I were DEAF or something, but when you have to LISten to him it is ACtually POIsonous. Well, ANYways, my dear, I always believe in being FRANK with people so I have told him I honestly wished he would talk SENSE at this point and, my dear, he was so MAD he could have GARgled BUTtermilk! I mean he CHERishes such a high oPINion of his converSAtional POWers, my dear, that it was honestly a terRIFfic SHOCK to him to disCOVer somebody who did not apPREciate them, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, it was too perfectly SCREAMing because he was actually all IRATE and IRigated so he became terribly sort of sarCAStical and, my dear, I NEARly had hysTERics because NOIsy appeared on the scene at this point and I had just remarked that I liked a man who SAYS what he THINKS, so ARab said 'You like NOIsy, don't you?' and I said 'Yes, he's so nice and quiet,' whereupon ARab pipes up SPITEfully, 'Yes, HE's a man who says what he THINKS—he never says ANYthing!' which I think is the DIRTiest crack I've ever HEARD, my dear—I mean I ACtually Do!"

MILADY BEAUTIFUL

By LOIS LEEDS

BEAUTY QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Problems of Make-up

DEAR MISS LEEDS—(1) Will you please print a list of the creams, powders and rouges necessary to a young girl? I have blue eyes, blonde hair, a very white skin. (2) How often should one have a facial massage? (3) How should the complexion be treated before going out? Also for evening? (4) My skin is not very smooth and I have many blackheads and sometimes I have pimples. I never use cream. Is that the cause of my trouble? (5) How should a person who uses rouge and face powder take care of the skin before retiring? (6) I tried using vanishing cream as a powder base, but it makes my face look chalky. What else could I use instead?

KATHLEEN G.

Answer—The girl in her teens should not make a practice of using rouge and powder because their daily use tends to coarsen youthful skins, particularly those of the blonde type. A discreet amount of make-up is desirable for evening wear, however. (1) Rouge and powder to use in the evening may be of a warmer tone than that used under natural light. In your case you might use a naturelle or ivory face powder and raspberry rouge for day time but flesh powder and orange rouge under artificial light. One should use some some sort of powder base, either a cream or lotion. Besides this you need cold cream to remove the make-up at bedtime. (2) Usually once a week. (3) Before going out-of-doors apply the powder base and powder to protect your skin. When making up for the evening first cleanse your face with cold cream, steam it lightly with a hot towel, put on an astringent lotion or skin tonic and then apply the foundation cream, rouge and powder. (4) Your complexion trouble may be partly due to your failure to remove all make-up thoroughly with cold cream every night before washing your face. Your diet may be at fault also. Eat plenty of fresh fruits, salads and vegetables. (5) See previous answer. (6) Use a thin film of cold cream or a milky skin lotion as a powder base.

REDUCING IN MODERATION

Dear Miss Leeds—I am 32 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall and I weigh 161 pounds. My measurements are: Bust, 38½ inches; waist, 30; hips, 38; thigh, 21½; calf, 14½; ankle, 8. Where should I start to reduce and should I go on a strict diet or just go away from the table a trifle hungry after every meal?

A READER.

Answer—You need to lose about 21 pounds to bring you down to the average weight for girls of your age and height. You should be able to lose this amount in about six weeks' time if you learn to control your appetite and if you take a few reducing exercises each day. Bust, waist and lower limbs are large in proportion to your height. Your hips seem unusually narrow; perhaps you took the measurement too high. They should measure at least 35 inches. Since you are not much overweight I suggest you cut down a little on each meal instead of going on a reducing diet at first. If by this method you have not lost two or three pounds in a week's time you might try omitting or eating very little at one of your meals. For instance, you might have for your reducing breakfast only an orange or muskmellon, a slice of dry toast and tea or coffee without cream or sugar. Or you may take nothing but a fruit salad for your noonday meal. You may have your usual menus for the other two meals, but do not take more than one helping of anything. Spend at least five minutes night and morning in doing exercises for calf and ankle. Toe pointing and knee bending would be good. Exercises for the purpose are given in my leaflet, "Care of the Legs," that I shall be glad to mail you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wrinkles Just Fade Away

Not so much the big wrinkles, but the little ones are what rob the face of its youthful appearance. If there tell-tale signs of Father Time's are beginning to show, get a jar of Pres-o-Radium Cream from your dealer—apply liberally at night and in a short time you will notice a difference in your skin. A new plump, youthful surface, soft and velvety, and every wrinkle goes.

WHAT'S the ANSWER?

1. Who said "Perfidious Albion!" What did he mean?
2. What is the meaning of the name of Mary Magdalene?
3. What are eyelashes for?
4. Where does our alphabet come from?
5. What is the Colosseum in Rome named for?
6. Which falls faster, a snowflake or a raindrop? Why?
7. What work is called to mind by the name of "Spenser?"
8. What are the names of the Three Fates?
9. Who was Beatrice Cenci?
10. What was the oriflamme?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions:

1. A mandrake is a plant which contains a narcotic poison. Its root is forked and was thought to resemble a man. This was the origin of the superstition that the mandrake cries out when it is pulled up.

2. The Great Wall of China was built by the Emperor Chi-hoang-ti two centuries before Christ to put a stop to the incursions of the Tartars, Kalmucks and other tribes from the north. It is 1,500 miles in length, and took 10 years to build.

3. A man is stronger than a woman because he has larger muscles with more muscle fiber in them. This is because women are, on the average, smaller than men.

4. The Old Man of the Mountain was Hassan Ben Sabbah, who was prince of a sect of Mohammedans about 1090 A. D. He and his followers lived in Mount Lebanon. When he wished to have an enemy killed, one of his followers, who were called assassins, committed the murder, believing that he would go straight to Paradise if he were killed in the service of his master. This is where we get our word assassin.

5. Utopia was the name given by Sir Thomas More to his imaginary perfect commonwealth. The word mean as "no place" in Greek.

6. Mother Goose was a real person. She was named Elizabeth Foster (1665-1757), and married Isaac Goose in 1693. She was a member of the Old South Church in Boston. Her songs were originally sung to her grandchildren.

7. The arteries carry the fresh red blood out from the heart, and the veins carry the exhausted, dull red blood back to the heart.

8. Venice, founded A. D. 421, owes its origin to the panic produced by the invasion of Italy by Attila the Hun. Many inhabitants of the cities bordering the Adriatic fled to the islands in the Lagoon, and settled there. This became the city and state of Venice.

9. Madonna is an Italian word signifying "My lady." The phrase is especially applied to the Virgin Mary.

10. The word thimble comes from "thum-bell," as it was formerly worn on the thumb.

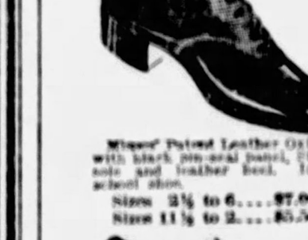
MY NEIGHBOR SAYS:



BEFORE applying polish to a chair or table the furniture should be wiped over with a cloth wrung out of lukewarm water to which a little vinegar has been added. This cleans the wood and a clean surface will take a much more brilliant polish than a dirty one.

If you have a waxed finish on the living-room floor and wish to clean it, put a few drops of crude oil on a soft, dry cloth and give the surface a light polishing after having dusted it well with a dry cloth.

Marks made on paint by matches can be removed by rubbing first with a slice of lemon, then with whiting, and finally washing well with soap and water.

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Wondering.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a newcomer in this city. Recently I met a man quite a lot older than myself, who has been asking me for dates. I am not interested in him and, furthermore, do not care for his friendship. He has called me up several times and I told him I did not care to go out with him. But he persists. What shall I do? I do not wish to say or do anything that is unkind.

WONDERING.

There is nothing to do but continue your reticence about not caring to go out with him. He seems particularly thickskinned. But the fact that he does not interest you will eventually penetrate. You might tell him that your time is so well occupied that you doubt you would have an evening to spare for some time to come.

Anxious.

DEAR MISS GALE:

How can a young girl entertain her friend who has exacted her home from to show? ANXIOUS.

It is usually too late after theater to invite a young man in, my dear. However, if you should get home early you can ask him to come in for a few minutes—and then chat. If he is interested in you and you share his tastes and ideas there will be plenty of things to talk about, and you won't have to worry about entertainment.

White Head.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a man about 38. I have begun to go about with girls. Please advise me what kind of a girl to choose. WHITE HEAD.

When you talk about "choosing" a young lady, I suppose you mean marriage, don't you? And if this is the case, my advice to you is not to "choose!" Wait until you fall head over heels in love and then there won't be any doubt.

N. E. T. D.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been going with a young man for 15 months and he seems to love me dearly. I know I love him, too. He left where he lived and moved away. He has always kept his promises thus and we have written letters. So now he wants to send me money to come to him. Should I accept his money and go and marry this young man? N. E. T. D.

No, the young man should come to your home for the wedding.

Blackie

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have read your advice to others for some time and think it is wonderful, and hope I am writing you for some advice for myself. I am a senior in high school, and am considered good looking. Now, Miss Gale, I have been going with a certain boy two years older than myself. We were very happy together, then I discovered he had fallen in love with another girl. It almost killed me. My friends said now I'd soon forget him as there were plenty of others. I could have, but Miss Gale four months have passed since we parted, but I haven't forgotten him and I love him yet. I see him almost every day. He always smiles and speaks, and something about him seems to tell me he still cares for me, but is ashamed to come back after the way he treated me. Now Miss Gale please try to help me, but don't tell me to forget him for I can't.

Thanking you for letting me write and wishing you loads of luck,

"BLACKIE."

If you truly believe he still likes you and is not going out with the other girl, why not invite him to call?

Heart-Failure.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl 16 years of age and am deeply in love with a man six years my senior. However, my father objects to my going with him and demands that I discontinue our friendship immediately. It would break my heart to do this, and I am asking your advice as to whether to obey my father or not.

HEART-FAILURE.

You must ask your father for the reason that he objects to your friendship with this young man. It may be that he has merely taken a personal dislike to your friend, and in this case you can convince him that the young man's character is all it should be and that he is unfair in his attitude. But if your father really feels that your friend is not worthy of you—if he has learned something about him to his discredit—then you must be guided by his advice.

Blue-Eyed Boy.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a boy of 17. Please tell me how to make girl friends. BLUE-EYED BOY.

Join a social club. Through club activities you will meet other young people.

PIRATE LINEUP CHANGED FOR TWIN BILL

Dempsey's Form In Camp Poor

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

TUESDAY, AUGUST 30, 1927 NINETEEN

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

THOUGH no baseball trades will be possible in the major leagues until after the close of the regular season on Sunday, October 2, the action of the senior and junior Dreyfuss in making a flying trip to Philadelphia at this time, while the Pirates are playing there, admitting that they had an appointment for a conference with President William F. Baker of the Phillies and announcing that they would return to Pittsburgh tomorrow instead of waiting for the conclusion of the Buccaneers' series with the Quakers, gave rise to a report that a trade was being planned for October consummation.

Both the president and treasurer of the Pittsburgh club, however, were emphatic in their denials that anything of the sort was in the wind. "Nothing of that nature could be put through at this time," said President Dreyfuss, "and there would be no call for undue haste or a trip to Philadelphia merely for the purpose of talking about it. Besides, Manager Bush is on the ground and any clubs having proposals to make for winter deals will have to talk business with him. Our trip has nothing to do with trades."

THE fact that the Pirate owner had a conference with the boss of the Phillies scheduled during his stay in Quakertown may have meant the renewal of efforts by various magnates in the National League to induce the boss of the Phils to give up his present bandbox park, which is the joke of the circuit, and have his club's home games next year played at Shibe Park, which is the hangout of the Athletics.

It is understood that the Pittsburgh magnate and other National League moguls have been trying for some time to make Baker see the advantages of such a shift.

The Phils' alleged ball park is owned by Charley Murphy, former boss of the Cubs, and the latter, desiring to use the property for something more profitable than baseball, has been trying to make the Quakers vacate in spite of their long lease.

Baker, who draws down a comfortable salary as president of the Phils and therefore has no cause to worry whether the club makes money or not, is determined to stay in the present location just to spite Murphy and to thwart his plans.

THAT'S where the other National League clubs suffer and it explains why they are so eager to induce Baker to move his club to the Philadelphia American League Park. The present Baker "soup bowl" is so small that pop flies go for home runs and line drives bound off the fence for singles.

Even with a winning club the Phils could not draw crowds of very profitable size because the park is not large enough to accommodate gatherings of such proportions, and besides there is danger of serious accidents such as that which occurred early this season when one of the old wooden stands collapsed.

IT is said that Baker could get the use of Shibe Park for the Phils—just as the Cardinals and Browns share Sportsman's Park in St. Louis—for a rental only $5,000 per year larger than the sum he pays annually for his club's present grounds. Naturally, the box office returns and the danger of accidents are a matter of considerable interest to the entire league, and that's why the other clubs are "working on" Baker in an endeavor to induce him to abandon the bandbox and to play his home games at Shibe Park. Don't be surprised if they succeed before next year rolls around.

BUT even though the decision of the Pirate officials to make a trip to Philadelphia by automobile may have had no connection with proposed deals (as a matter of fact the Phils have little desirable material except Catcher Wilson remaining since the transfer of Pitcher Carlson to the Cubs), it is a safe guess that the Buccaneer management is keeping its eyes wide open for opportunities to swing some beneficial fall or winter trades.

At this time it looks as if the coming off-season will be the liveliest that the Pittsburgh Club has known in a long time in a trading way. There is likely to be plenty of fuel to keep the stove league fires blazing during the winter.

THIS probably will be particularly true if the Bucs fail to win the pennant this year. There is no doubt that they have been heavily handicapped by sickness and injury, and would have a much higher percentage today if they had received as many smiles as frowns from the fickle Dame Fortune, but at the same time it is clear to any one with half a baseball eye that the work of some of the players has been decidedly below par and that the team's pennant chances would be much brighter at present if they had performed up to the requirements of a regular on a pennant-seeking outfit.

That's why there will be some changes before another spring arrives. Outfielder Hasen Cuyler, who right now appears destined for other climes, if the local club can get anything like his value in exchange for him, is not likely to be the only Pirate on the block.

FROM all that can be gathered, the work of a certain regular pitcher has not been entirely satisfactory, and if he does not finish the season at a much stronger clip, and hold out a whole lot of hope for a continued improvement next spring, he is apt to be sent down the river in exchange for another hurler who can be relied upon more safely for consistently good mound work during the season of 1928.

JACK MUST IMPROVE TO BEAT GENE

By FRANKLIN GRANT,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—If Jack Dempsey expects to catapult Gene Tunney from the throne seat of pugdom on September 22, he will have to do some tremendous improving between now and battle night.

Not even the most devout members of the Dempsey Rooting and Tooting Association can feel the remotest throbs of gladness over what the former champion has shown in a week of laborious effort around these parts.

He seems a million jumps removed from the form he displayed during the earliest days of his training for Jack Sharkey. And the whole world knows that Dempsey looked sad and forlorn at that time.

Something has happened since Dempsey fought Sharkey and no one seems to be able to step up and explain the whys and whats of it.

He has been missing most of his punches by a foot; those that he lands are lacking in zip. Everybody is hitting him, where and when they will. The co-ordination of eye, mind and muscle which helped to make Dempsey a super-man in the far flung years, and which was reasonably good while he was training for Sharkey, has been wholly absent since he started tossing gloves around here.

He can see his chances to land a punch—but he cannot seize the opportunity before it has flitted away. He can see the boys starting smacks for his chin and body, but he isn't fast enough to step away before the blow lands. He rushes, as in the other days, but his rushes are charges more than anything else, and usually the other fellow has stepped out of range and plunked him before he can smite the other fellow with a smote.

LEO EXPLAINS

"Sure, he doesn't look good," commented Leo P. Flynn. "But why get steamed up about that? He's been laying off for six or seven weeks, hasn't he? And he's still more than three weeks away from the fight. He'll be in the pink when the time arrives."

Perhaps he will. Dempsey always has been a bad gymnasium worker. If he were an unknown working out in a gym today, the sporting crew would call him "a bum" and pass him by. And that goes for Dempsey at almost any time in his career, for he always has looked like a soft thing against sparring partners.

But the point is that he looks worse these days than he ever has looked. Because he fought Sharkey less than seven weeks ago and preceded that with many weeks of intensive training, it was assumed that when he swung into action here he would be only a few notches removed from the peak that he knew on the night he bowled over the Gob from Boston.

But here he is missing his punches by wide margins, shambling around rather than prancing and seemingly unable to step out of the way when the boys unleash sundry hooks and jabs for his jaw or his torso. He looks bad, he works worse—and that's that.

THE SUCKER GAME

An Expose' of the Pari-Mutuel System, demonstrating that you can't beat the races

by FRANK G. MENKE

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of a series of four articles by Frank G. Menke which deal with pari-mutuel race track wagering and point out how utterly impossible it is for the vast army of horse players to beat the races by wagering through the "machines.")

BACK in the mist-shrouded years of antiquity, Adam gathered little Eva and the children around the family bonfire and exuded this bit of wisdom:

"You can't beat the races."

Perhaps the parent of the human race had a vision of this era when 40 or 45 race tracks in the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico operate under the murderous pari-mutuel system of wagering. For of all the plans ever devised to snare the "sucker dollar" none ever was so certain of accomplishment of purpose or so vicious in its method as the pari-mutuel form of wagering as it exists in the United States today.

Under this system, a race track eventually would get every dollar a race horse player had, even if he never played a loser.

If 10,000 players, each with $100, went to a race track and remained there for a solid week of two of racing, those 10,000 men would walk out of the track with hardly enough money left of their $1,000,000 to pay carfare home.

The "take" eventually would get almost every dollar they took to the track.

Until the opening of the racing season of 1927, pari-mutuel wagering was fully legalized in only two states—Maryland and Kentucky. The tracks in those states were allowed by law, to deduct 5 per cent and "breakage" from the betting pool in each race.

By "breakage" is meant the odd

MEADOWS, KREMER TACKLE PHILS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—One of the best races in the history of the National League was close to the ultra-critical stage today as the four hot contenders squared off on three eastern battlegrounds. The fighting Giants have hacked away with such effect at the lead of the three western contenders that they are now right in the thick of the fight.

Just three and one-half games separates the fourth-place Giants from the first-place Cubs, with the Pirates and Cardinals deadlocked in the two "in-between" notches. The interesting figures follow:

	W.	L.
Cubs	73	49
Pirates	68	49
Cardinals	68	49
Giants	69	52

A glance at the "lost" column is significant so far as the chances of the Redbirds and Bushwhackers are concerned. It will be seen that the teams tied for the runnerup position have not lost any more battles than the Bears.

The Cubs are two and one-half games ahead of their Western rivals, but the gap is altogether confined to the "won" column. The McCarthy clan, having played five more games than the Pirates and Cards, hold their advantage by this margin of victories. After a game is lost it cannot be won, but the team always has a chance to win the interests yet to be played. If the figures were reversed the numerical advantage of the Cubs would be more decisive.

The Giants, in fourth place, have won one contest more than the Pirates and Cardinals, but the Polo Grounders are three games off in defeats as compared with their three competitors. Nevertheless, if they keep up their present gait they are sure to even up this disadvantage. In all events McGraw's club is the most consistent winner at the present stage of the race.

The Giants made it a general "free-for-all" yesterday with their double victory over the pace-setters. Besides getting within three and one-half steps of the top, the New Yorkers came within one game of tieing the second-place jumble in a three-way knot. The even split of the Cards against the Dodgers while the Pirates battled to a six-inning tie dropped the Redbirds into a deadlock with the Pittsburghers.

Manager Donie Bush of the Pirates today declared he would switch his battle-front in such a manner as to conform with the order when the club was getting in its best licks. That means that Clyde Barnhart will go back to the second notch with Glenn Wright in the cleanup position, Grantham will drop from second to sixth place. In the event of southpaw pitching Hal Rhyne will be inserted in the lower bracket with Grantham going to the bench.

Their fun stopped by rain and wet grounds in the seventh inning of the first game yesterday, the Pirates and Phillies will try to stage two bargain bills this afternoon and tomorrow. The single fight of yesterday was tied at two-all when the showers came. The umpires kept the players and fans waiting for one and one-half hours in an effort to complete at least one game, but it was finally given up as a bad job.

The Pirate skipper had Lee Meadows and Remy Kremer groomed for this afternoon's battle with one or two others available if he should deem it wise to switch. Meadows, however, is just about a sure bet for the first game. Manager Stuffy McInnis, of the enemy, had practically decided to work Southpaw Herb Pruett in the opener. McInnis was in a quandary as to his selection for the nightcap in view of the shortage of hurlers.

Rickey to Address Preachers

DELAWARE, O., Aug. 30.—The rough and ready ballplayers of the last generation will be interested to hear that Branch Rickey, former manager and now vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, will speak at the tri-conference Methodist gathering here the week of September 6.

THROUGH the SPORTLENS by HARVEY BOYLE

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A visit to the offices of Tex Rickard, promoter of the Dempsey-Tunney bout, causes speculation as to where so many people get so much money to spend on a boxing show. The trick confronting Mr. Rickard is not to sell the tickets, apparently, but rather to see that they are allotted properly.

HARVEY BOYLE.

In a straw skimmer and carrying his ubiquitous cane, the celebrated promoter was in a happy mood in discussing prospects for the big show here September 22.

"ALREADY," he remarked somewhat proudly, "the orders are past the total reached last year in Philadelphia." He chewed on an ever present cigar. "There never has been anything like this," he resumed. "The big problem is in the allotment of tickets. The same old story of a thousand persons wanting to sit in a row that will hold only a hundred is with us again. I am getting help in Chicago through a committee which is working with me. I suppose I can make a recommendation, but although it's my show I have no proof that I am going to have much to say about where the tickets are going. I'm not complaining about this. In fact, it was my idea. It relieves me of a big responsibility. The scheme, too, I believe, will eliminate the ever recurring evil of scalping.

"We had to make announcement the other day that the choice sections have not as yet gone on sale. You see some of the boys were buying tickets at our ticket windows and then asking fancy prices for them from the public.

"Those boys would point out to the purchaser that the ticket was marked row one, but failed to mention that row one in some sections did not necessarily mean these seats would be close to the ring."

RICKARD is here to stay until the fight is over. He has a force of about 20 persons brought here from New York to handle his affairs. The same force which has handled all the recent big bouts is here and an efficient force it is.

One of the marvels is Joe Boyton, chief ticket seller, who will handle more than $2,000,000 before the affair is over. A former circus man, Joe knows his groceries. He has that trick down of snapping a pack of tickets close to his ear and counting by the sound.

Ike Dorgan, brother of the famous Tad of cartoon fame, is in charge of the press arrangements. He is a mournful figure, as it is his task to place 300 to 400 correspondents from various parts of the country in a space designed to take care of a number far less. He also is in charge of the publicity department, although with newspapers already sending many staff men here to cover the training work, he does not have to write much publicity.

MR. RICKARD here moves from luncheon to dinner, from dinner to banquet, so far no meetings at breakfast time have been arranged here, but this may come soon. All Chicago is anxious to tender a dinner, a banquet, or a luncheon to the promoter. Perhaps some of the boys thus moved have an idea of getting pretty good seats.

SENTIMENT here still favors Dempsey. The boys are predicting that Jack will get the bigger ovation when the champion and the challenger climb into the ring. This will be a strange experience for the former champion who, while king of the heavies, nearly always had to listen to many cheers for his foe and few for himself.

But his gallant comeback against Sharkey, plus a certain feeling against Tunney held by some of the boys who write pieces for the paper, have helped to bring Dempsey back to a high point of esteem.

WHILE the experts have learned to their sorrow not to bank heavily on what they see in the training periods, there continue to come very solemn analyses of the workout. Nearly every one agreed Dempsey looked fine last year in getting ready for Tunney and it was not until after the battle was over that he was called a "hollow shell." He looks no better now than he looked last year, and besides, he is a year older. However, everyone has his fingers crossed, for the experts have found there is no use trying to analyze Dempsey. When he came out of the Tunney bout a badly beaten man, the experts were puzzled and chagrined; when he beat Sharkey there was more bewilderment, for he looked none too good until he scored the knockout, and so now, no matter how bad he looks today or how good he may look tomorrow, there are many ifs and buts and only a few wherefores in the cautious writings of the observers.

AFTER having watched him we are still going to stick to Tunney. If we pick Dempsey to lose often enough some day we are going to be right some time. The man must be beaten some day, although sometimes we feel that he will be getting into the ring sporting a nice long gray beard, toothless and with a cackle in his voice. For as long as his heart beats he is always going to have a chance. No one ever will question his heart. In the prize ring that is a big asset. If Sharkey had traded a scowl for an indomitable spirit he might be the boy training at Lincoln Fields and not Dempsey.

McGrawmen Show Form

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—With the Pirates slicing to the right, the Cardinals hooking to the left and the Cubs floundering in a sand trap, the Giants are thundering down the National League fairway today in a drive that threatens to land them in first place. The slipping Bruins were flattened twice by the Giant juggernaut yesterday, leaving them only 2½ games in front of the Cardinals and Pirates, who are tied for second place.

With New York only one game behind St. Louis and Pittsburgh, the race is becoming closer than last season's nightmare. Each of the three leaders has lost 49 games, which may give the Cardinals and Pirates a chance to make up lost ground later on.

Thirty thousand rabid fans saw the Giants scorch the Cubs twice, 8 to 7 and 4 to 1. Heinie Mueller, the pint-sized outfielder, prospective bridegroom and honorary president of the Dover treet Pinochle Club, St. Louis, was the hero of both games. Der Heinie hit a home run and a single in a seven-run rally in the third inning of the first game and drove in the winning runs in the nightcap.

Jess Petty, of the Robins, hit two singles and won a 2-to-1 duel from Grover Alexander, of the Cardinals. In the nightcap Jumbo Elliott held the Cards to two hits in eight innings, but lost by the same score. Brooklyn advanced to sixth place.

The American League home run race tightened up when Lou Gehrig swatted his forty-first homer. The score now is Ruth 42 and Gehrig 41. Incidentally the Yankees slaughtered the Browmes for the eighteenth straight time, 8 to 3.

Slim Harriss, of the Red Sox, and Jack Quinn, of the Athletics, turned in pitching masterpieces. Harriss held Cleveland to two hits, winning 10 to 2, while Quinn limited Detroit to three singles and blanked the Tigers 5 to 0. It was Detroit's sixth straight defeat.

The Braves dropped two to the Reds, 4 to 2 and 6 to 5, and fell into seventh place. The Reds have released Art Nehf, veteran southpaw.

Rain stopped the Pittsburgh-Philadelphia and Washington-Chicago games. The Pirates and Phils were tied, 2 to 2, in the sixth.

Duquesne Fight Off, Keck Reviews Films

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

Rain having knocked in the head the Cuddy DeMarco-Johnny Mellow fight scheduled at Duquesne last night, ye scribe took advantage of an opportunity to give the Dempsey-Sharkey fight films the North and South at the Olympic and came away with these impressions:

The pictures are run off much faster than the fight was fought. The speed of the exhibition makes the two heavies flit about the canvas with all the speed and agility of a couple of junior-paperweights. Did anybody anywhere ever see two heavies going anywhere in such a hurry? Bet your last year's orange peels they didn't. Two of the rounds were run off in a little more than four minutes. That's crowding six minutes of action into about two-thirds of that time.

Sharkey shows to much better advantage in the pictures than he did in the ring. He does more clean punching out in the open than was apparent from our position at the ringside near his corner. This probably accounts for the fact that most of the scribes on the far side of the ring, having the same perspective of the fight as the camera, credited Sharkey with most of the rounds up to the disputed knockout. As we recall it, we gave Dempsey all but two of the six and a fraction rounds fought, although we picked Sharkey to win the fight.

FINISH IS SUDDEN.

The finish comes with such starling suddenness after the start of the seventh round in the pictures that it is almost impossible to follow the actions of the men, whereas there actually was plenty of fighting and socking before Sharkey complained of being hit low and then went down. Even the slow-motion running of the knockout seems fast, and, because of the positions of the cameras that filmed the event, it is impossible to tell accurately whether or not the punches Dempsey is sending to the body just before the end are low. His right elbow can be seen chugging in and out, and suddenly Sharkey turns his head to the referee to complain, his face a study of pain, and then Dempsey whips over a left to the LEFT side of Sharkey's chin and the sailorman goes down and is counted out trying to get up.

The pictures are as clear and distinct as could be asked on most points, and it is unfortunate that they are run off so rapidly and that the men are facing the wrong way at the crucial moment.

Jules Beck, the Duquesne promoter, ran into a tough one when he had to postpone his show until Thursday night because of the unfavorable elements. Rain threatened all day yesterday and kept him in hot water, but the deluge did not descend until just an hour before scheduled starting time, when many of the fans already were on their way to the Steelers' baseball park. Rather than take another chance on the weather Jules wisely decided upon a three days' postponment to give it a chance to clear up and also to give the boxers an opportunity to get on a new edge for the battles.

BOXERS IN BENEFIT SHOW.

The Tiffany Tigers football team will hold a smoker to raise funds for equipment this season at Forrester's Hall, 4216 Butler street, on Monday night, September 12, and will have a good list of boxers on the card, among them Jack Zivic, Pete Zivic, Hugh Haggerty, John Haggerty, Mike Moran, Joey Katkish, Jack Katkish, Ray McCall and Johnny Pundy.

Jack Katkish, Lawrenceville welterweight, has just been able to get out of bed after being laid up for two weeks with an attack of lumbago.

Which is the harder hitter—Gene Tunney or Jack Sharkey? The boys out at Dempsey's camp in Chicago were discussing this subject the other day, according to reports, and both Dempsey and his manager, Leo P. Flynn, agreed that Sharkey hit Dempsey harder in the first round of their bout than Tunney did in the entire 10 rounds of his battle with Dempsey at Philly last fall.

BRITTON NEEDS MONEY.

Jack Britton, who had to get a special permit to box Georgie Levine in New York last night, is almost 40 years old and has been boxing since 1904, or something like 23 years, during which time he has lost less than 20 bouts out of more than 300. He won, lost and regained the world's welterweight title and retired a few years ago with plenty of money, but lost it in Florida real estate ventures and now is back in the ring because he has to earn his living.

Letters on the Dempsey-Tunney debate continue to pour in for publication next Sunday. How about yours?

SUCKER GAME

pennies. For instance, if a winning ticket figures to pay $8.69, the track keeps the odd pennies and pays the player only $8.60. The pennies usually figure about 1 per cent of the "pool," thus giving the tracks in Maryland and Kentucky 6 per cent.

On July 1, Illinois legalized racing and fixed 6⅔ per cent as the "take" for the tracks without "breakage."

In other states, the amount of the percentage depends entirely upon the greed of the pari-mutuel officials. How much was deducted in Florida last winter by each of the tracks is not publicly known. One is supposed to have deducted 5 per cent and "breakage"; another is reported to have taken 10 per cent, while still another, where the play wasn't so big, is reported to have apportioned 20 per cent for itself.

In the Chicago district in 1926, one of the tracks started by taking 6 per cent and "breakage"—a total of about 7 per cent. But, as time went on, the officials increased their "take" until it reached 10 per cent and "breakage"—or about 11 per cent of the total.

The wonder is that they stopped there—if they actually did. For in 1926 there was no racing law in Illinois. Those tracks operated without legal supervision. There was no one to check their accounting, no one to safeguard the public's money—no one to limit the "take."

If 10,000 men had gone to that track in 1926 with $100 each, and the whole total of available cash had been wagered through each of the seven races, and 11 per cent was taken from each pool, it meant that after the seventh race the track would have taken $553,000 for itself and that the players would have had only $447,000 left of the $1,000,000 they started with.

In Maryland and Kentucky, where the "take" and the "breakage" is held to a total of 6 per cent, the 10,000 men playing their total of $1,000,000 there, would fare somewhat better. For they would suffer a cut of only about 27 per cent on the day, and thus would have around $720,000 left when the seventh race was over, provided they bet their bank roll on each race.

But there are other tracks, where greed predominates, where no law safeguards the players from merciless "cuts" and where the pari-mutuel persons are reported to be taking from 15 to 25 per cent, just as the mood pleases them.

But the most ghastly feature of the pari-mutuel system, as it is operated on ALL of the American tracks, is that in none is there any complete safeguard for the players from theft of their money.

One of the most reputable racing publications in America made the flat assertion some time ago that a sum approximating $300,000 had been stolen from the betting pools at one of the Kentucky tracks. It was money belonging to the public—not to the track. And so the theft was recorded merely as an "incident."

Another charge was made, and permitted to go unchallenged, which concerned a Canadian track. It was asserted that the pari-mutuel officials had made an error one day and overpaid the holders of winning tickets a sum approximating $10,000.

"But," recorded the publication, "the track was not a loser. For the very next day it made certain deductions from the sum due holders of winning tickets until it had recovered its $10,000."

If such an act was not deliberate theft then what is theft? For when the officials deducted money on the second day from the sum justly due the holders of winning tickets it deliberately defrauded those players. Certainly the players on the second day were not the ones who benefited the day before through overpayment, and any deduction from their full winnings was theft—nothing more, nothing less.

Carroll Makes Debut At Wilkinsburg

Elmer Carroll, former star at W. and J. and later coach at Greensburg, where he placed some mighty strong elevens on the field, took up his new duties at Wilkinsburg yesterday and created quite a favorable impression during the course of the initial workout of the season.

Last season's crack squad, which lost to Washington in the finals of the scholastic chase, was riddled by graduation, but Carroll is optimistic over the coming campaign and was very much pleased with the manner in which the holdovers and incoming aspirants handled themselves in the short session yesterday.

Carroll has a system all his own and the great results he achieved at Greensburg during his seven-year regime should serve as an indication that better things are in store for Holy City fans.

With Capt. McDowell, who will do the bulk of the punting this year, and Henry Graham, sensational junior halfback who was chosen on the all-scholastic eleven last year after playing but one season of school football, back in the fold, the Carroll system should find a great nucleus around which to form.

The Mechling brothers, Fred and Charley, both lettermen, are in the pink of condition and should rip things up this fall. Tuttle and McKinney, too, should gain much prominence during the course of the year and the stock of the Wilkinsburg aggregation soared when it became know that Tony Wakeman, lineman two years ago, was a candidate again. Wakeman was out all last year on account of a bad leg injury, but he reports that he is fit and ready to go.

Fundamentals occupied most of the attention yesterday for the Wilkinsburgers, preceded by a talk by Coach Carroll, in which he outlined the season's work.

Heidelberg, National amateur champion, will show the 1927 edition of the cracks at Heidelberg in the American League, September 18. Heidelberg fans are keen to scan the talent that will fight for Rosarini this season.

The Turtle Creek clubs are working fast to get two real teams on the field this season. Turtle Creek Thistles will line up a club in the District League.

Westinghouse will be in the newly-formed International League for the season, that bringing to the valley all of the other clubs in the district. Turtle Creek fans will see plenty of good soccer this season with two leagues showing in the valley town.

One of the Eastern League clubs is trying to land the services of Gunner McKeesport's stellar halfback. However, there is still a chance that the up-river boy will stay around the International loop, unless his terms are met.

Fans will see practically all of the clubs in action this week-end. Managers are now completing the lineups for the opening games of the season. Of course, there will be plenty of changes before it has been under way very long, but all of the oldtimers will be back in the fold.

George Lumsden, one of the greatest stars ever to play in this district, attended the referees' meeting on Saturday. What does that mean?

LA BARBA OFFICIALLY RENOUNCES TITLE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Fidel LaBarba has formally relinquished the world's flyweight boxing championship he wrested from Frankie Genaro of New York in 1925.

RAIN DAMPENS GRIDIRONS

Soggy fields, made slippery by last night's downpour, greeted the football candidates of Carnegie Tech and Duquesne University when they took their respective fields this afternoon to resume their training.

The Skibos inaugurated their football campaign on the Tech campus yesterday with Coach Wally Steffen in charge of the session. Coach Steffen was well pleased with the results of the opening workout.

Coach Elmer Layden plans to continue the light sessions for the Dukes at the present time.

Next week will find all three of the local colleges in active training. Pitt being scheduled to leave for camp at Windber early Monday morning.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 31.—Candidates for the varsity football eleven at Washington and Jefferson College will report to Head Coach Andy Kerr to commence preliminary training tomorrow.

While not inclined to be enthusiastic about the prospects of the Presidents in their campaign, which will be launched when they meet Waynesburg College here September 24, Head Coach Kerr admits that they could be worse.

Having communicated with the players by letter during recent weeks, Kerr states that he expects the squad to be practically intact for the first workouts and that the preliminary drill will be pushed as rapidly as possible due to the brief period that remains until the opening of the season.

RECORDS MADE DESPITE STOCK SEE-SAW

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment imparted a decidedly irregular price trend in today's stock market, which was again featured by the establishment of record high prices by several of the leading industrials. Cotton prices broke about $2.50 a bale on the publication of the government's boll weevil report, but recovered more than half their loss by early afternoon. Wheat prices were slightly reactionary on further liquidation inspired by the prospect of a large unexportable surplus of the commodity.

Bullish demonstrations in the stock market were spread over a fairly broad list, but chief interest centered in such stocks as U. S. Steel common and General Electric, each of which advanced 3¼ points to new highs at 148 and 140⅝, respectively, and in American Can and Goodrich, which also attained new tops.

Speculation in the motors quieted down somewhat. General Motors ran into heavy profit-taking after its recent sensational advance, but held within a few points of the record top. Passing of the Pierce-Arrow preferred dividend tended to chill speculative enthusiasm for that issue and those of the other small manufacturers.

Renewal of selling pressure against the oils was accompanied by unconfirmed rumors of new financing by some of the so-called independents, although Barnsdall officials denied such reports as applied to that company. Atlantic Refining and Houston were the hardest hit. On the other hand, General Asphalt, long a laggard, suddenly developed a burst of strength.

Texas & Pacific Land Trust, which was recently split up on a 100-for-1 basis, changed hands at 2670 and 2695, as against the previous close of 2800 and the year's high of 2650.

Atlantic Coast Line broke 4 points and heaviness developed in several of the Southwestern rails.

Despite the increasing month-end demands for currency, call money was in plentiful supply at 3½ per cent.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The raw sugar market was quiet again early today and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 4.61c for Cuban duty paid.

Raw sugar futures opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher, but rallied later on covering and buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections. The upturn was attributed to the steadiness of the spot market, where despite the inactivity, holders were not pressing supplies. Prices at midday showed net gains of 1 to 3 points, the near position showing the maximum extra.

Only a moderate business was reported in refined sugar and prices were unchanged at 5.75c to 5.90c for fine granulated.

PRICES STEADY TO FIRM IN TRADING HERE

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug 30.—(AP.) The bond market today continued to move in the same listless fashion that has been evident for the last week or more. Although there was apparently little eagerness on the part of purchasers, prices remained generally stationary near the prior week levels.

Simultaneous with the announcement that the new 30-year Argentine 6s were over subscribed shortly after the books were opened, yielding 6 per cent bonds of the republic changed hands freely around 90½, the price at which the new issue was offered. The foreign group, otherwise, was decidedly quiet.

Mortgages of a few telephone companies were the object of moderate demand close to their previous last prices. American Telephone 4s and Bell of Pennsylvania 5s sold at 99 and 104, respectively. Intermediate Telephone 5½s were the leaders in the convertible group.

Little activity was noted among railway issues, with the exception of a rise in Southern Pacific convertible 4s to 89¾, a new maximum. Lake Shore is reaching their previous best figure, but later dropped a fraction under yesterday's closing price.

United States governmental securities displayed mixed tendencies. Second and third Liberty 4½s were firm.

NEW YORK, Aug 30. (AP) Transactions in the unofficial bucket shops on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, the number in some cases indicating actual shares, in others in dollars and thirty seconds of one face:

Full time positions can be arranged for those desiring permanent work. ABSOLUTELY NO EXPERIENCE REQUIRED. NO FINANCIAL CO-OPERATION GIVEN from the start. You should earn NOW LESS than $44.10 PER WEEK from the moment your name is placed upon the company's rolls. Of the dozens of happy workers recently employed, very few earn less than $40 per week and are working but an hour per day, evenings. Our plan is extremely simple in pleasant surroundings and most congenial associates.

Do not confuse this ad with another of similar wording for YOU WILL NOT BE ASKED TO SELL ANYTHING AND YOU CAN EARN FROM THE MOMENT YOU START

This is REAL. This is GENUINE. Here is an opportunity to earn a REAL BANK ACCOUNT during the summer months. The work is extremely simple and can be done by anyone of ordinary intelligence and we will make you understand and show you can do the work before we ask you to start.

You must understand this is an unusual opportunity. Come and get the facts. We require white applicants over 25 years of age AND EVENINGS will be given utmost consideration.

This ad will appear until WEDNESDAY EVENING and none will be considered after 8:30 O'CLOCK Wednesday evening. Make up your mind NOW to answer in time. No APPLICATIONS RECEIVED AT ANY OTHER HOUR. (Daylight Saving Time.)

Last Call. Apply Paymaster.

APPLY WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 31, at 8:30 O'CLOCK, SUITE 601 CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVENUE AND SMITHFIELD STREET.

Notice! Remember this is an entirely new department and here is your opportunity to get a position in it. Scores of new applicants have been given employment during the evenings or after business hours and even the office boy earns $35 per week. Many of our employees who are unemployed otherwise during the daytime have bought new cars and have increased their salaries as a result of this wonderful extra income opportunity. You can answer other ads every day of the week, but—remember you can only answer this ad Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

YOU SIMPLY CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS IT. Knowing how and why means EXTRA MONEY. Now if you really desire to open a REAL BANK ACCOUNT, DON'T MISS THIS. Do not answer this ad unless you are really sincere and anxious to earn an extra income. We will receive no applicants after 8:30 o'clock (daylight saving time) Wednesday evening, so make up your mind to answer on time. EXPERIENCE OF PRESENT EMPLOYMENT. EVERYONE WILL BE GIVEN FULLEST CONSIDERATION AT ABOVE TIME, AND REMEMBER THE PLACE.

APPLY WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 31, at 8:30 O'CLOCK, ROOM 601, CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BUILDING, SEVENTH AVE. and SMITHFIELD STREET.

The Cutest Thing Baby Ever Said.

Dear Aunt Stella—

I would like to enter that contest where you write about Cute Sayings of babies. My baby said to me, "Daddy, what are you going to give me for my birthday?" I said, "Dog my cats, I forgot all about your birthday and the wife is pestering me for some new clothes!" My baby said, "Why don't you tell her business is rotten and then spend the difference on something for me?"

My, but I was embarrassed. I mean, now wasn't that cute?

BOOK REVIEW

Another Peep at "Maurine"—A Wholesome Romance of the Sad Nineties.

Maurine La Pelle was always being misunderstood by Vivian Dangerfield. Take, for instance, the night she gave a party. Of the guests—

"None more noble or more grand of mien
Than Vivian—broad of chest and shoulder, tall
And finely formed as any Grecian god
Whose high-arched foot on Mount Olympus trod."

It seems that in the ballroom Maurine was waltzing with her cox, Roy Montaine (whom Vivian disliked)—

And she grew faint and dizzy, so they went
Out on the cool moonlight portico,
And, sitting there, Roy drew her languid head
Upon the shelter of his breast, and bent
His smiling eyes upon her, as he said,
"I'll try the mesmerism of my touch; be quiet now
And let me make calm passes o'er your brow."

He was merely trying to cure his cousin's headache, but who should come along but Vivian Dangerfield.

"I beg your pardon," came in that round tone
Of his low voice, "I think I do intrude."
Bowing, he turned and left them quite alone
Ere she could speak, or change her attitude.

Just Like a Man

Dumb-Bells

THE METHOD.

John—Did the doctor get you on your feet in two weeks as he promised?

Smith—Sure did. I had to sell my car to pay him.

CHEAP.

Harry—Imagine! At the fair today I had to pay $5 for a kiss.

Jones—That's cheap! I paid $5,000 for the same thing, in court.

DRUNK.

First Reveler—Lesh go thish way. Sign over here saysh "Telephone Booth."

Second Reveler—Me? I don't even know him, and besides I'm mad at him because he shot Lincoln.

GIRLS!

Marie—I shall not marry a man unless he is my exact opposite.

Alice—You're asking for an almost perfect man!

WHEN IT STOPPED.

Marie—Are you still in love?

Louise—Heavens! Haven't you heard? We're married!

UNNECESSARY.

He—I told your father I wanted to marry you, although I couldn't build a home.

She—Did he consent?

He—Yes, he said you were away so much you didn't need a home.

ADMITTED.

Boss—Smith, you need more sleep. I suppose you were up with the boys last night, eh?

Smith—Yes, sir—twins!

PROOF.

Billie—Of course, I love you. Haven't I danced four dances with you?

Jack—What proof is that?

Billie—You would know if you could see yourself dance.

HER CHOICE.

Jerry—Does your wife kick if you come home late?

Henry—Not if she can find something handy to throw.

COULDN'T BE HELPED.

Gentleman—You make a terrible lot of noise, Higgins.

Higgins—You would, too, sir, if the car went through the back of the garage.

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

CHICAGO has always had an aisle seat in the front row.

We know it wouldn't be long before Chicago would improve its position by putting its feet on the stage.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

Which is exactly what the town has done. It dug up an old moth-chewed statute last week which blankets all crime like a crazy-quilt covers grandpop in the winter.

This law places all malcontents under the stewardship of a lunacy commission. This ancient Chicago law states that all criminals must be crazy and are thereby liable to cranial examination by a jury of equals.

They are trying this rag out on gunsters and intoxicated motorists. If you are arrested for driving your car, while under the influence of the gasoline tank, you are automatically declared non compis sappo.

Bill O'Connor, chief of Chicago detectives, is the boy who figured this one out. When a stewed tourist is placed in front of Bill he is banged on the head with a paper weight and filed away for future reference.

The penalty involves an eight-day incarceration in the psychopathic suburbs for observation by experts. If found guilty, some professor adds you to his collection of rare and exotic butterflies.

It is going to be tough on the driver who thinks his sweety's waist is the steering wheel. Two may be company, but a motorcycle cop always makes it a crowd.

Bill got the idea while watching a pickled chauffeur make a right-hand turn on Michigan boulevard while proceeding north. A right-hand turn on Boule Miche under these conditions means a right-hand turn into Lake Michigan.

So Bill figured that a chauffeur might as well be a chauffeur preserved. He has donated the museum and is now waiting for exhibits.

If you get yourself arrested in Chicago they take you right over to the laughing garage, where educated psychopaths study your mannerisms and habits for eight days. If you are guilty you get a life membership with all dues paid up.

Even if you are innocent you have served eight days. Thereby, is justice tempered with Joe Miller's joke book.

We hope the experiment is a success. But, anybody who has ever tried to navigate Chicago's centrifugal and congulated traffic, cannot understand how eight days' observation will detect the difference between the drunken insane from the sober idiots.

American Bar Associaton Confronts Two Big Tasks

This city's attorneys and many of its laymen will follow with interest the proceedings of the American Bar Association's fiftieth annual convention, which begins in Buffalo, Wednesday.

Born at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in 1877, this organization has grown from a handful to 28,000 members. It influences profoundly a great profession.

Our country is suffering from two conditions which it can affect—too many laws and too much crime.

Our State and Federal statute books contain an estimated total of 510,000 laws, to which about 30,000 are added yearly. Local ordinances having the effect of laws number 1,500,000. All are swelled by varying judicial decisions which number more than 50,000 a year.

The effect of so much legislation upon ordinary life is bad. One city resident in every dozen is arrested annually. The number who break laws, but do not get nabbed, is unknown.

Humanly we are perhaps as good a people as the average, if not better; but collectively we have won an unenviable repute for contemptuousness of authority. One reason is that not even our many able lawyers can keep us informed as to what is and what is not lawful.

The American Bar Association will be expected to increase its efforts to simplify the laws and reduce their super-abundance.

Crime, together with the machinery for its prevention or punishment and the economic waste it entails, is costing our people about $1,500 a year apiece—a burden far greater than is borne by the inhabitants of any other nation.

For example, we lose 11,000 lives a year by murder, our homicide rate being 25 times as high as England's and 40 times that of Germany.

We have continually in prison seven times as many persons in proportion to the whole population as Great Britain has, although the American malefactor's chances of escaping punishment are about three times as many as are the English or Canadian malefactor's.

William H. Taft, before he became Chief Justice, said our administration of the criminal law was a disgrace to civilization. It has improved slightly, in spots, since he spoke, but the bulk of the indictment still holds good.

We naturally look to leaders at our bar for guidance out of these evil conditions.

How Valuable Is the Work of a Librarian?

For a fistic bout in Chicago next month, which cannot last more than 40 minutes, nearly three million dollars will be spent on admissions, and nearly as much more in travel expenses.

New York has a public library system which starts its librarians at $1,200 a year and offers to its 40 oranch heads a maximum wages of only $2,700 a year each. Pittsburgh library salaries do not range so high.

It takes as much training to make a good librarian as to make a good pugilist. The training of the pugilist improves the body of one man. The training of the librarian improves many minds.

A librarian can pass along our streets and be unnoticed. Let a famous pugilist appear and the police will be needed to prevent a traffic blockade.

It is possible that the earning power of the librarian will last longer than the earning power of the pugilist and that the librarian will enjoy upon the whole a more durable kind of respect.

Yet the rewards some how seem disproportionate.

The pugilist gets his compensation from custom; the librarian from rates fixed by law. We cannot do much with the custom, but we might improve the law.

Time for Vile Books To Go

Those who object to the manner in which the authorities of Boston enforce the wholesome Massachusetts statute against debased books offer conflicting testimony.

They say, in one breath, that the ban is an injury to literature, and in the other that books, when banned, immediately sell more rapidly than before.

If this be so, why their protest?

The truth is that every state should move vigorously to cleanse the reading matter of its people.

There is ample proof that the bulk of the debasing plays, books and pictures which are peddled in the sacred name of "art" are, indeed, deliberate pandering to depraved tastes and have little or no artistic value or purpose.

Traffickers in this filth have had ample warning. The public's patience has been extreme. But in a choice between further patience and degradation, the public's decision will not be in favor of degradation.

Incidents In the Day's News

A woman, seemingly intelligent, leaves a home of wealth and culture, a husband, who had cared for her tenderly, and a bright son to adventure with another man, a wife deserter, a drinker and gambler. Disillusioned, she admits she was a fool. But says her husband would also be a fool to take her back. Would he?

A lad of 15 puts a knife and rope in his pocket, seizes a mallet, and when a grocer's back is turned hits the man on the head, intending to bind him and rob the till. A first venture in banditry. It fails, because the man is not stunned but gives chase and the lad is arrested. What put the notion in his head?

A bank messenger once won $750 on a horse race—easy money. He continued to bet, with stolen funds—and lost. After each loss he stole more, hoping for a big winning so that he could repay. The coup did not come. He is now awaiting trial. How can such temptations be reduced?

These are but three incidents in a day's news. The millions of wives who are faithful, the millions of lads who are honest do not make news. But the exceptions give us something to think about.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.
5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.

THE COMMON ENEMY

Once Overs
By J. J. MUNDY.

The Right Slant

YOU have been snubbed and you cannot forget it.

Over and over you revive the thing in your mind.

First you are hurt, then you become angry, and finally revenge takes possession of you.

You punish yourself, not the offender.

As a matter of fact, what does it all amount to?

That you were not invited to a party, a tea, a picnic, a week-end diversion, or the like, is a small matter.

Perhaps most of your men friends attended a birthday party, and the wife did not include you in her husband's surprise.

But that is such a trivial thing that it should not cause you a moment's regret.

What is one, or a dozen, social events in the big scheme of life?

What you should realize is that you are working for something bigger and more important than an evening's entertainment.

If you have the right slant on life, these social matters are incidents which you might enjoy, but which have no real bearing on your plan of procedure through this sphere.

Ye Towne Gossip - - By K. C. B.

I NOT only feel.
THAT THE youth of today.
IS NOT any worse.
THAN THE YOUTH
OF OUR day.
BUT MORE than that.
THE PRESENT day youth.
IS VERY much better.
THAN THE youth I knew.
AS I look back.
TO MY childhood days.
I SEE in them.
A LOT more fear.
THAN THERE is today.
AND INSTEAD of that fear.
SUGGESTING TO us.
WE AVOID the things.
THAT BROUGHT punishment.
IT SUGGESTED instead.
WHEN WE'D done the things.
THAT WE shouldn't do.
THAT WE find a way.
OF HIDING the truth.
FROM THE grown-ups.
AND AS a result.
I'M MUCH afraid.
THAT LITTLE boys lied.
A WHOLE lot more.
THAN THEY do today.
AND IT wasn't the fault.
OF THE little boys.
NOT ANY more.
THAN THEIR'S the credit.
FOR THE greater degree.
OF TRUTHFULNESS
THAN THERE is today.
IT'S JUST the change.
THAT'S COME over us.
AND THE greater freedom.
OF THE youth today.
AND LESS of fear.
THAN THERE used to be.
AND MORE of knowledge.
OF THE paths that lead.
TO EVIL ways.
AND GIVE me a youth.
THAT WILL never lie.
IN ACT or word.
AND I'LL have no fear.
OF THE man he'll make.
BUT GIVE me a liar.
AND I wouldn't bet.
A BLOW-OUT tire.
THAT BEFORE he's through.
BE WON'T be a thief.
I THANK you.

True Gratitude

WHY should I not be glad, although I have not had life's rich and splendid chances, although I have not known great ventures of my own nor shared in rare romances? For few indeed are they who see life's facets gay and drink its wins of gladness; the common lot, instead, it is to joy, to dread, and, mixed with bliss, find sadness. But who would not be glad to know that he had had a part in all of living? To know he understood his brothers' every mood, who would not feel thanksgiving? The truly thankful breast not only for life's best his pleasure voices; but that he shared in all, knows good, bad, great and small, his heart rejoices. This is true gratitude: To find in every mood, in all life's phases, some good that may be won; in shadow as in sun some cause for praises.

New York Day by Day
by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Chinatown sleeps the sleep of dead during the day. Save for an occasional huckster or some slippered figure scuttling across the street there is no show of life. It seems completely devitalized by a conspiracy of thick silence.

In the dimness of some of the shops may be seen the outline of figures with interlaced legs squatting like Buddha. An early morning customer receives only a sullen grunt of recognition. Whether he buys or not appears a matter of total indifference.

Conversation is received with a questioning heavy-lidded insolence. Even the few children play with a listless half heartedness in the gutters. During the daylight hours smells of Chinatown are pronounced. They are acrid and yet have the clinging feel of fungi.

In the shuttered old frame house—where many white wives are reputed to lead their weary lives of Occidental renunciation—there is something gripping about the funereal solemnity. Somehow, you wait to hear a piercing and curdling scream.

Off beaten paths are several pinched and tortuous alleys with blind faced buildings whose entrances are known only to Chinatown's own. This is a section living in smothered dirt the tourist never sees. It is sealed in from light and air.

Chinatown is about the only bit of New York left not thoroughly sanitized. The big blue bottle flies buzz there in the summer. It has been said the Chinatown of today is only for yap wagon tourists, but there are many nooks left unexplored by them.

The place stirs sluggishly from its lethargy at sundown. The twisting streets fill and bubble with activity. Sunday is the big day when Chinese come from everywhere, especially young sports in their American clothes as flashily dressed as Broadway.

* * *

A picturesque figure of Chinatown is "Old Horse and Wagon," the only street beggar the quarter has ever known. He is nearly blind and shuffles along the street singing sing-song fashion his version of the ancient classic:

That nightie time, he come chop chop
Young man walkee, no can stop
Maskee snow maskee ice
He cally flag with chop so nice.
Topside gallow!

In other days one of the most picturesque spots in Chinatown was Nigger Mike Salter's sawdust-coated groggery. It was where a pale, curly-haired boy known as "Little Irvie" played a piano with yellowing ivory keyboard for pitched pennies and shyly stuttered his thanks. He is today Irving Berlin, the millionaire jazz king and husband of Manhattan's most celebrated debutante. Chuck Conners, with his pearl-buttoned short coat and flat-topped gray bowler was also a figure at Nigger Mike's, who was incidentally a strapping white man.

Many other entertainers went up to Broadway and success from the Bowery and Chinatown curbs. Mostly they were singers and dancers, known as "buskers." They did their stuff for tossed coins, and a good busker on a lively Saturday night often made $25—a fortune in those unregenerate days. The white "hop heads" were seen in every bar. Today they are never seen in Chinatown. Narcotic laws are too stringent. The addicts hide away mostly in small suburban towns near the metropolis.

A postcard in a bold feminine hand reads: "I saw you leaving a cafe the other night, and you are certainly no John Gilbert."

Flying Over the Atlantic
By DR. FRANK CRANE

Experience has shown that in an emergency we can fly across the Atlantic. Lindbergh made a sensational trip alone, Chamberlin and Levine got over as far as Germany and Byrd and his crew managed to reach France.

We have the machines and we have men capable of handling them. We have airplanes and we can stay up the requisite number of hours in continuous motion, and we have skilled mechanics to handle them.

There is one obstacle that makes regular traffic over the Atlantic impracticable at the present and, that is, the weather.

The greatest struggle of the aviators was not with their machinery nor a struggle against physical weakness. The trouble was fog.

To go roaring along in the air at 100 miles an hour in darkness so impenetrable that you can't see the tips of your plane wings is rather a ticklish business.

You must use instruments to gauge your height above the water or the earth, otherwise you cannot see your landing until you bump into it.

One great trouble with flying in both Chamberlin and Byrd's instances was the compass. Their instruments got magnetized or otherwise went wrong and they couldn't tell directions.

Byrd flew around quite awhile in France and couldn't find any place to land. It was pitch dark.

This was partially compensated by a radio, as the flyers were often able to tell their location by a radio communication from below.

A curious obstacle is the freezing of the fog upon the airplane wings, thus making the plane heavier. Byrd says that this freezing is liable to occur at a certain temperature, while either above or below that temperature it rarely happens.

Byrd's greatest friends in flying across the ocean were the charts of the air currents based upon long observation.

Practical flying in the future, according to Acosta, is still a dream, because we are yet far from controlling the weather or adjusting ourselves to it.

Whoever will invent some means to control weather conditions will give the greatest aid to flying.

Tales That Are Told

Quite Clear

OLD Mrs. Gander was notorious as the village gossip.

She happened to meet the local builder in the grocer's shop. After the usual greetings, the builder remarked:

"I saw the nave in the new church this morning, Mrs. Gander."

The old woman nodded her head gravely and compressed her lips. She leaned towards the builder confidingly.

"No need to mention no names, George," she said. "I know 'oo you mean!"

Wrong Label

"I CAN'T understand," explained the restaurant manager, "why customers complain. This soup is really excellent."

"They wouldn't grumble, sir," replied the waiter, "if the chef would admit it is soup. He says it's coffee."

Eat Your Own

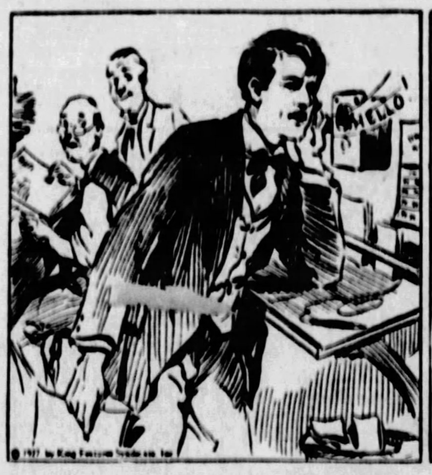
MOTHER (sagely): "You can't eat your cake and have it, you know."

Small daughter: "Well, mamma, if I want cake just to look at, there's plenty in the baker's window."

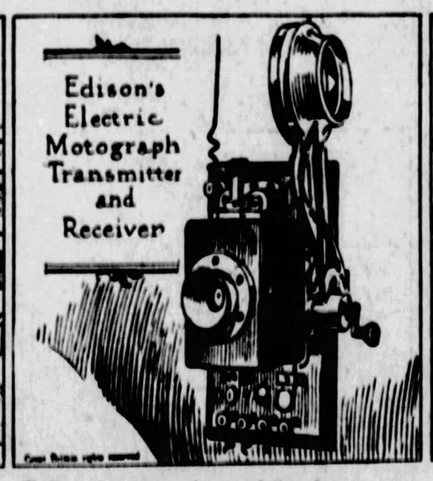
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



IN THE early days of the telephone, subscribers would say, "Are you there?" or "Are you ready to talk?" until one day Edison, with characteristic directness, grabbed a receiver and shouted into the transmitter the historic first "Hello!" This has since followed the telephone into practically every civilized country.



THE carbon transmitter and the electro-motograph, which greatly amplified the voice, have been pronounced Edison's most valuable contributions to telephony. For each he received $100,000. He insisted that the money be paid in annual instalments of $6,000, to keep him from spending the entire amount in a few months.

EDISON entered the European telephone field with his electro-motograph, or "loud-speaking telephone," sending men over to establish exchanges. Bernard Shaw, before he became famous, was employed by the Edison Telephone Company at London and frequently assisted at demonstrations of the electro-motograph.

SAMUEL INSULL, afterward private secretary to Edison, and a leader in the development of telephonic exchanges and American electrical manufacturing, was the first telephone operator in the first experimental exchange erected in Europe. Mr. Insull is now a Chicago financier of note.
